Chinese Military Headquarters Says Rifles, Machine Guns and Artillery Can Be Heard Around the Walled City.

NANKING, China, July 26 (AP)—Chinese military headquarters stated early today that Japanese forces had attacked Peiping shortly before midnight. The headquarters stated that its information was contained in official Peiping dispatches. A spokesman said a severe engagement is expected. The rattle of rifles, machine guns and artillery has been out all around Peiping. Independent foreign advisers reaching Shanghai from Peiping said that Japanese troops apparently launched a major-scale attack aimed at expelling the entire twenty-fifth Chinese Army from the area, and that American and British troops were manning the walls of the legation.

Legation Defenders on Walls. Japanese forces about Peiping had but a single direct radio link indicated severe fighting around the former Chinese capital. They said British-Italian and American embassy quarter defenders were posted on the walls. The battle reports followed issuance by the Chinese Central Government of a sharp statement which was interpreted as rejection of Japan's two ultimatums demanding Chinese troop withdrawal from the Peiping area.

Japanese Terms in Sharp Note. A Japanese spokesman explained officially that the Thirty-seventh ultimatum was believed to be in the nature of withdrawing and "any" of the true test comes at noon tomorrow, when all Thirty-seventh ultimatum must be out of Peiping and the Yungting River. That was Gen. Katsuki's second ultimatum.

The Central Government, in a sharp statement generally interpreted as amounting to rejection of Japanese terms for settling the North China dispute, declared any developments depend on the statement, issued by the Foreign Office, said China had exerted every effort for peace and would not accept responsibility for what happened in North China now on.

He charged that the Japanese army made an unprovoked attack on the Langfang garrison and then issued impossible demands and issued provocative acts on the outskirts of Peiping. A Chinese garrison was reported to have been attacked by Japanese troops Monday at Langfang, midway station between the Tientsin-Peiping Railroad, where Chinese and Japanese troops met inside and outside the Peiping area.

PHILADELPHIA MAYOR PUTS
EXTRA GUARDS AT HIS HOME

Executive Declares an Attempt Is Being Made to Link Him With Gamblers.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—Mayor S. Davis Wilson assigned extra police guards at his home today and charged an attempt was being made to link members of his administration with a distribution of gambling protection money. Threats have been made against him, the Mayor said, but added the guards were called to protect his family.

The Mayor said a memorandum found in the papers of State Policeman Wallace F. Ely, arrested on a charge of tapping the home telephone of Louis E. Wilgore, secretary to Wilson, showed Ely had been assigned by a legislative committee to investigate gambling and vice in Philadelphia.

The committee, under the chairmanship of State Senator Frank W. Ruth, is investigating the procedure of State courts.

"They are going to put up or shut up," Mayor Wilson said. "I don't necessarily want an apology, but I do want either a public hearing or a statement from the committee giving me a true bill of health."

JEFFERSON CITY, July 27.—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City have reached a compromise on appointments of State Insurance Commissioner and members of the Kansas City Board of Election Commissioners.

Upon his arrival here today from Denver, after a vacation in Alaska, the Governor told a Post-Dispatch reporter the details of his compromise with Pendergast yesterday at a Colorado Springs hotel, where the boss is summering.

State Insurance Superintendent R. Emmet O'Malley, Pendergast's choice for reappointment, whose four-year term expired July 1, will be allowed to remain in office until July 1, when he will be replaced, as the result of yesterday's political horse-trading. The condition for his continued tenure was that his official acts meet the Governor's approval. "Mr. O'Malley will be allowed to remain in office until next July 1, with the distinct understanding that, if he does anything I do not approve, I will remove him forthwith," Gov. Stark said. "That means there will be a new insurance superintendent July 1—before then if there is anything I do not approve."

Concession to Pendergast

Pendergast was accorded the privilege of submitting three names for appointment as O'Malley's successor, the Governor said, adding, with emphasis, that he would not be bound to his selection from that group.

"There was no agreement that I would be bound by the three names submitted by Mr. Pendergast," the Governor said. "I told him he could suggest three names and I would not be bound to his suggestions. The appointee will have to be qualified and satisfactory to me."

Pendergast's version, given by telephone from Colorado Springs, was a general agreement with the Governor. It was the boss' understanding that, if none of the three nominees was satisfactory to the Governor, he might submit other names until one was approved.

Asked why O'Malley was permitted to remain in office for a year when he was not considered a worthy of reappointment, Gov. Stark replied, "That was in the nature of a compromise."

He added that Pendergast had "implacably bitter" because he had not been consulted about some appointments. Among them, he said, was that of William T. Kemper, Kansas City banker and former member of the Democratic National Committee, as chairman of the recently appointed State Social Security Commission.

Kansas City Election Board. Appointment of a new Kansas City election board also played a part in the give-and-take of yesterday's conference. Gov. Stark steadfastly refused to reappoint Chairman Fred Bellemere and George V. Aylward, two of the board's three Democratic members, as requested by the boss. Furthermore, the Governor said he denied Pendergast's request that he be permitted to submit other members.

"I told him that I preferred to handle that myself," Gov. Stark said, adding that he would appoint an "entirely new" election board. "I said I would appoint outstanding men who would be fair to all and see that Kansas City had honest elections. And I want to say that Mr. Pendergast said that suited him fine."

Pendergast, at the Colorado resort, said:

"I submitted the names of Mr. Bellemere and Mr. Aylward for reappointment to the election board. Gov. Stark said he could not reappoint them."

"I told him that I had no further names to suggest," the boss went on, in contradiction with the Governor's version of that phase of the conference.

"The Governor said he wanted to appoint a high-class election board and I told him he could select his own Democratic election commissioners and that they could not be too high a class for me."

"The question of who the Republican members of the board would be, we did not discuss. Moreover, I emphatically told the Governor neither I nor my nephew, Jim Pendergast, would make any recommendations for Republican places."

"We parted the best of friends and will continue as such, politically and personally."

Appointments to Come. Gov. Stark said he did not know when he would make the appointments to the Kansas City Election Board. He pointed out that the new permanent registration law for Kansas City would become effective Sept. 6 and that the members

Bill Sent to Senate for Approval; Roosevelt's Right to Pick Own Men Defended by Corcoran.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 27.—The House passed today and sent to the Senate the bill to authorize the President to appoint six administrative assistants at salaries not to exceed $10,000 a year. On a standing vote, the House was recorded 227 to 73 for the measure.

The bill embodied a part of President Roosevelt's program for reorganization of the executive branch of the Government.

Passage came after two hours of sharp debate, in which Republicans attacked the legislation.

Voting almost strictly along party lines, the House turned down every attempt to amend the bill.

A proposal by Representative Andrew (Rep.), New York, to require Senate approval of appointments lost, 145 to 48. Another by Representative Knutson (Rep.), Minnesota, which would have forbidden appointment of anyone over 70 years of age was defeated, 140 to 48.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The danger of providing Mr. Roosevelt with "more Corcorans and Cohens" was pleaded in the House of Representatives today by Congressman Gifford (Rep.), Massachusetts, as a motive for opposing a bill authorizing the President to appoint administrative assistants, not to exceed six in number, at salaries not to exceed $10,000 a year.

To which Congressman John J. Cochran (Dem.), Missouri, retorted that "the country would be better off if it had a few more Corcorans and Cohens." If these men, he added, "are able to write with that section of the press, here, it might do us good to look them over."

With all respect to the members of Senate and House, Cochran asked, "does their record of statutes held constitutional compare with that of Corcoran and Cohen?"

The bill under discussion was introduced by Congressman J. W. Robinson (Dem.), Utah, chairman of a sub-committee of the House Committee on Government Reorganization, which was instructed with that section of the project dealing with an increase of the President's administrative staff.

Three other bills under this general topic are soon to be presented to the House.

Jenkins Interrupts.

Robinson was interrupted by Congressman Jenkins (Rep.), Ohio, who demanded: "Is one of these new secretaries to be Charlie West?"

The reply was that the President has a right to choose whomever he pleases, and that Jenkins knew as much as Robinson as to whether West would be one of the appointees. West is a former Congressman who has been active as a lobbyist for New Deal measures at the Capitol. Thomas G. Corcoran and Benjamin V. Cohen, who have joined jobs as counsel respectively in the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and Public Works Administration, were the authors of such administration legislation as the two security acts, the Utility Holding Company Act, the substitute Judiciary bill, recently killed in the Senate, and the wages and hours bill now pending.

That the Republican members had decided to seize upon the issue of the six new secretaries as a political rather than an administrative measure was obvious from the opening of the session. Congressman Robinson stated that no opposition to the proposal was expected, and asked that debate be limited to 30 minutes on each side. A loud outcry rose from the Republican ranks.

Robinson suggested that the debate be confined to one hour on each side.

FIGHT AT REPUBLIC
MILL RAGES HALF
OF NIGHT, 60 HURT

Cleveland Steel Workers and Pickets Club Each Other in Darkness After Day of Violence.

HEADQUARTERS OF
C I O UNION WRECKED

Police Finally Clear Area Two Blocks From Plant—Ask Company to Abandon Night Shift.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, July 27.—Four hundred policemen were on guard in Cleveland's steel strike area today after a night of labor violence in which more than 60 persons were injured.

The fighting, between workers and strikers at Republic Steel's Corbin-McKinney plant, was the third outbreak in 24 hours. One striker was killed and 40 persons were injured in clashes near the plant earlier in the day.

Workers and pickets clubbed each other's heads with pick-handles, iron pipes and sticks in the darkness. The headquarters of a C I O union was wrecked. Glass was broken in automobiles.

Vandalism, which has been sporadic for several weeks, spread over other sections of the city. Newly-painted houses, finished without union labor, were sprayed with paint. Windows were smashed in homes of steel workers and operatives of knit mills where C I O and A. F. of L. union are engaged in a jurisdictional fight.

Crowd Forced Back.

Police forced a crowd at the Corbin-McKinney mill back two blocks from one of its main entrances, and the morning change of shifts took place with little violence except for one or two instances of stone throwing.

Assistant Safety Director Robert W. Chamberlain asked Republic executives to abandon the night shift change, placing the plant on a two-shift day, while Police Chief George J. Matowitz canceled all police vacations. Mayor Harold H. Burton and Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell said they would not ask that National Guard troops be sent back here.

A C I O delegation protested to the Mayor that the police made no effort to clear the union headquarters which was wrecked.

"When your men throw rocks, that's going too far," Mayor Burton replied.

Meanwhile, Republic Steel Corporation filed a suit to enjoin mass picketing of the Corbin-McKinney plant.

Sporadic fighting between worker and striker groups through the day yesterday, punctuated by more serious fighting with the changing of shifts, reached a climax last night with a five-hour fight in the valley fronting the main entrance of the plant.

Starting shortly after dark, the fighting raged until after 1 a. m., with more than 60 persons taken to hospital or doctors' offices.

Both cars and automobiles damaged, shots fired, tear gas bombs thrown, and clubs wielded so indiscriminately that often, police said, members of the two groups were fighting their own men.

Headquarters of the Steel Workers' Educational Committee near the plant was wrecked by a band of workers. A newspaper reporter who saw the fight inside the S W O C building, said he saw Miss Rosina Artino, 19 years old, who had been preparing food for pickets, struck on the arm with a club, and thrown through a window. Furniture was broken, windows smashed, and glass and debris were thrown into the food intended for the pickets, the reporter said.

At 10:30 strikers began evading back who had been keeping back crowds of sympathizers, and made their way into the valley, where they could stop cars at will.

500 Men Attack 100 Pickets. At 11 about 500 workers, identifying themselves with white arm bands, rushed out of the Independence Hotel and attacked a group of about 100 pickets, witnesses said. The pickets fled before the workers, but occasionally one would attempt to seize a club or other weapon from a worker, and a fight would start.

Every available policeman was ordered to the scene as reports spread that all the workers in the plant were to come out and attack the crowd of sympathizers. Nearly 200 workers did start up the valley toward the spot where police held back sympathizers, but turned back.

STARK'S AID LIKELY TO SUCCEED HARGUS

Governor Considering J. D. James, Secretary for Head of Public Service Board.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 27.—Gov. Stark on his return here today from a vacation trip to Alaska, said he was considering the appointment of J. D. James of Joplin, his private secretary, to the chairmanship of the Public Service Commission to succeed Sam O. Hargus of Kansas City.

The Governor said the appointment would not be made immediately, but that he had it under consideration for some future time.

Hargus was appointed to the chairmanship by former Gov. Park to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of John Caskie Collet, recently appointed Federal Judge, when Collet retired to go on the Missouri Supreme Court.

It was Park's contention that a commissioner to fill a vacancy did not require confirmation by the Senate, and Hargus never has been confirmed. Under Park's construction of the law, Hargus' term does not expire until April 15, 1939.

It is understood Gov. Stark does not agree with his predecessor's construction of the law and James' appointment is expected before 1939.

James is a lawyer and is a member of the State Bar. Advisory Committee headed by Boyle Clark of Columbia, which is engaged in filing charges looking to the disbarment of lawyers engaged in unethical practices.

The Governor cited testimony before the La Follette Senate Committee investigating violation of civil liberties as the basis of denial of the license.

COMMUNIST TICKET BARRED

New York Court of Appeals Rules Party Off State Ballot.

By the Associated Press. ALBANY, N. Y., July 27.—New York's Court of Appeals today barred the Communist party from the official State ballot as a recognized political organization.

Referring to the Communist party's claim that it is an "official party" because it polled at least 25,000 votes for Governor in 1934, the court's opinion said: "This amendment became a law on May 16, 1935. There was an election to be held in November of that year, but it was not a gubernatorial election. The Communist party would be a party for that election. When, however, at the election for Governor in 1936 it polled less than 50,000, thereafter it ceased to be a party."

BLACK LEGION CHIEF
HUNTED IN NEW YORK

Ohio and Michigan Request Arrest After Report Fugitive Was Seen.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—Requests from Columbus, O., and Detroit, Mich., for the arrest of Virgil F. (Boss) Effinger, fugitive commander of the Black Legion, have been received here. The search here was ordered on a report a man resembling Effinger was seen in New York recently.

Assistant Chief Inspector John A. Lyons said the request from Columbus was for Effinger's arrest on a fugitive warrant. Effinger, an electrical contractor of Lima, O., has been sought since he walked out of an extradition hearing last Aug. 26 on charges growing out of the Black Legion investigation.

The Detroit request, Lyons said, was for Effinger's arrest on a charge of illegal possession of weapons.

Effinger, identified at trials in Detroit as national commander of the Black Legion, was among 22 persons charged with violation of the State criminal syndicalism statute and conspiracy to overthrow the Government in a blanket warrant issued by Circuit Judge James E. Chenot of Detroit.

Judge Chenot sat as a one-man grand jury requested by the Michigan State Attorney-General's office to investigate the secret society of hooded night riders.

Effinger also faces another warrant, obtained last Aug. 15 by Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea of Wayne County, who charged that Effinger transported bombs and explosives to a Black Legion meeting there two years ago.

Both charges are contained in an extradition warrant signed by Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio on Aug. 23, three days following the hearing before Charles Leasure, his executive assistant, recommended that Effinger be returned to Michigan.

The indictments naming Effinger and 21 others were based on affidavits of Dayton Dean, confessed Black Legion "executioner," and other members of the order. Dean and seven other men were sentenced to life imprisonment for the Black Legion murder of Charles A. Poole.

The Governor cited testimony before the La Follette Senate Committee investigating violation of civil liberties as the basis of denial of the license.

DEFENDERS

Powerful Contingents Are Rushed to Western Front Salient at Points on 30-Mile Line Where Rebels Have Gained Ground.

HEAVY CASUALTIES;
MANY AIR FIGHTS

Government Command Sees Counter-Offensive Slowly Wasting Itself, Pins Hope on Holding Out Few More Days.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, July 27.—Government commanders said tonight that the insurgents' fierce three-day counter-attack on the Brunete front west of Madrid had passed its peak.

They asserted the attack was diminishing in force and expressed confidence that Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops, exhausted by the ceaseless onslaughts against the Government's salient, would be unable to sustain the drive much longer.

The battle raged with seemingly continued intensity, however, particularly in the volume of artillery fire. But Government officers asserted their retreat from Brunete, furthest tip of their wedge in the insurgent Madrid siege lines, definitely was stopped.

Government Lines Strengthened. With powerful contingents of reinforcements rushed to Gen. Jose Miaja's sagging line, loyalists said they now had at least twice as many men in reserve as the insurgents possess.

Two long days of concerted insurgent thrusts at Villanueva de la Canada, nerve center of the Government's sector, forced Miaja to bring up heavy reserves for what some military observers say may be the final battle for Madrid. The determining factor of the war, in the opinion of many of these observers, hangs on Madrid's fate.

All Government positions along the 30-mile looping front which Miaja drove into the insurgent besiegers' rearward territory nearly three weeks ago were subjected yesterday to bombing and shelling. But only at the north of Brunete, demolished tip of the salient, were Miaja's forces thrown back.

After the fall of Brunete Saturday, the Government troops fell back to positions a few miles farther from the shattered tip. There they sought to consolidate their strength under the natural protection of the trees.

Trenches Bombed. Yesterday the insurgent bombardment with shells and bombs was reopened. Artillery projectiles and bombs—hundreds of them—ripped through the trees. Shells exploded in the trenches, ripping away sandbag fortifications. The Government's position became untenable and another retreat was ordered.

Despite the reverse, the Government command feels that the insurgent counter-offensive is slowly wasting itself and that the Madrid forces will raise the siege of Madrid if they can hold their tip of the salient for a few more days.

The Government sees insurgent casualties of the last six days at 25,000 and admits its own losses have been heavy.

It is estimated that 200,000 men, divided about evenly between insurgents and the Government, are involved in the battle.

While the Government has fought off insurgent attackers from the south (the Brunete sector), the southeast and east of Villanueva de la Canada, center of Miaja's communications lines, another strong insurgent drive has been directed at its positions east of Villanueva del Pardillo, at the base of the salient. This is an effort to plug the hole which Miaja punched in Generalissimo Francisco Franco's lines some 15 miles west of Madrid 18 days ago.

It was on that sudden offensive that Miaja's troops drove southward as far as Brunete in an effort to encircle insurgents camped on the western fringe of Madrid.

Government officers assert the loss of Brunete was not unexpected since it was in a particularly exposed position. They are more concerned with keeping high the morale within their ranks.

Insurgent Planes Routed.

One of the largest air battles of the war was fought last night over Villanueva de la Canada. Forty insurgent bombing planes were routed

LAWYER ASSAILS NLRB EXAMINER AT FORD HEARING

SHARP EXCHANGE

Chair Strikes Out Remark, Counsel Shouts, "I'm Being Treated Like Horse Thief."

By the Associated Press.
DETROIT, July 27.—Louis J. Colombo Sr., attorney for the Ford Motor Co., today accused Trial Examiner John T. Lindsay of the National Labor Relations Board of "treating me like a horse thief" at a hearing on a complaint charging the company with unfair labor practices.

Colombo, shouting loudly, asserted Lindsay was "permitting Ford company witnesses to be bull-dozed and entrapped" on cross-examination.

The clash interrupted Dennis E. McKinney, Ford plant foreman, who was giving additional testimony intended to support the company's contention that several employees belonging to the United Automobile Workers were discharged because of "deliberately planned inefficiency"—not because of union activity.

Laurence A. Knapp, NLRB attorney, asked McKinney:

"Isn't it a fact that the pretext for firing was gazing off into space?"

Colombo objected but was overruled by Lindsay.

Colombo Assails Procedure.

"I am going to talk about this here and now," Colombo declared.

"The NLRB counsel has no right to abuse this witness."

Lindsay, flushed and tense, rose from his chair and moved toward the right of the courtroom dais.

"Strike that last remark from the record," he ordered.

Rejecting Colombo's protest to the remark being stricken, Lindsay told the attorney, "You have been given every courtesy, Mr. Colombo, and there is no reason for your attitude."

"Courtesy!" Colombo exclaimed.

"I have been treated like a horse thief rather than an officer of the court. My objections have been made for the purpose of obtaining justice."

McKinney was being questioned about the company's reason for discharging Joseph V. Bailey, a union member named in the NLRB complaint as dismissed for union activity.

Knapp and Colombo Make Peace.

When McKinney left the witness stand, Knapp walked up to him and they shook hands. Knapp then went to Colombo and smilingly proffered his hand, which Colombo shook.

McKinney testified Bailey and two others employed in the Ford paint and varnish plant at Highland Park were discharged "because they were part of a group who did not have the best interests of the Ford Motor Co. at heart."

Knapp spoke of the General Motors and Chrysler strikes and told McKinney: "What you really thought was the group was in a conspiracy to assist the unions in their strike activities."

"That thought was not in my mind," McKinney replied.

He said he knew there was "general labor unrest in Detroit" and thought the group "might have something to do with it."

Now about to enter its fourth week, the board's hearing on accusations that the Ford company violated the Wagner Act continued without immediate indication when it would be ended.

Yesterday's Proceedings.

McKinney testified yesterday that a "definite conspiracy to hold down production" might have arisen from an idea on the men's part that a surplus was being built against any sit-down strike.

Dismissals of John Cwikiel, Fred Gulliksen and Joseph V. Bailey, all members of the United Automobile Workers Union, were ordered, McKinney said, to increase efficiency.

He said there was "definitely organized trouble" in the division.

The board charges the company with firing men for union activity.

Other defense witnesses besides McKinney, including foremen and departmental heads, have testified that the discharges in question were due to unsatisfactory work.

"I couldn't help but have the impression," McKinney said, "that there were men in the varnish room who were not working in the interest of the Ford Motor Co. We would get whole tank cars of frame paint that would not dry."

McKinney, who said he was unaware at the time that the three discharged men were union members, testified his general superintendent had threatened to close the staff, unless conditions improved.

The foreman also testified that Stanley Ziek, who last week said on the stand that he had resigned because Cwikiel and Gulliksen had been fired for union activity, had himself suggested dismissal of Cwikiel.

McKinney said that Ziek, after he quit, was replaced by a man of only 10 or 15 per cent of Ziek's experience and that production then doubled.

MOVE FOR STATE CONVENTION TO PICK ARKANSAS SENATOR

Saline County Democratic Committee Calls on Other Counties to Join in Action.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 27.—A convention of Arkansas Democrats to nominate a successor to the late Joseph T. Robinson was called today by the Saline County Democratic Committee, which condemned the State committee's action in nominating Gov. Carl E. Bailey without a primary.

The Saline County Committee, holding a special session at Benton, asked all other county committees to join in the proposed convention here Monday, Aug. 9.

The county committee's convention call came after two Democrats had announced they would run as independents against Bailey in the special election, which probably will be called for Sept. 14.

J. Rosser Venable of Little Rock, World War veteran, said he would enter the election against Bailey and Robert F. Waters, mountain-teacher-humorist, who entered the race last night.

Venable, who opposed Senator Robinson last year when the late Democratic majority leader won his fifth term, has never held public office. Waters has never before sought an elective public office.

SENATE PASSES BILL TO LIMIT TRAIN LENGTH

Approves McCarran Measure
Providing No More Than 70
Freight Cars to Be Carried.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—A limit on the length of freight trains, advocated by Senator McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, as a safety measure, was passed by the Senate yesterday and sent to the House.

The Nevada Senator appealed for support of his bill, which would limit freight trains to 70 cars, on the ground it would tend to preserve both life and property.

He said the sudden application of air brakes on trains sets up a "black action" which jolts both crew members and the freight they are hauling, and that the amount of "black action" is in proportion to the length of the train.

In response to questions, McCarran said, increased employment which might result from his bill would be a minor factor.

Senator Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, joined Senators White and Hale, Maine Republicans, Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, and Senator Dietrich (Dem.), Illinois, in expressing opposition. Bailey asserted enactment would cost the railroads about $150,000,000 a year. The public, he added, ultimately will pay the bill.

Pointing out that the market value of railroad stocks is at a low point, Bailey said one reason is "because Congress is trying to run the railroads and doesn't know anything about it."

The only amendment adopted fixed the effective date of the bill as July 1, 1938.

NIEMOELLER'S BROTHER FREED

Released by Secret Police After 30 Hours; Leader Still Held.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 27.—The Rev. William Niemöller, younger brother of the Rev. Martin Niemöller, leader of Protestant opposition to Nazi domination of the church, was released by secret police yesterday after 30 hours in jail. He attended evening service at his brother's Dahlemburg church but did not preach.

The Rev. Martin Niemöller still is in jail. He was arrested July 1 on charges of inciting to disobedience. His brother came to Dahlemburg to occupy his pulpit shortly thereafter, and was arrested, a reliable informant said, after preaching three militant sermons.

Her Machine Smashed While Going Down Hill; She Hides From Bystanders Beneath Fence.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 27.—The Duchess of Kent and her two small children escaped unharmful last night from a collision in which windows of their automobile were smashed and its side was crushed.

The party was traveling downhill in Kent when the car collided with another ascending.

The Duchess, who is the former Princess Marina of Greece, went across a field with her two babies, Princess Alexandra, 7 months old, and Prince Edward, 21 months old.

They hid from bystanders beneath a garden fence.

The Duchess was forced to squeeze through a narrow gap in a roadside gate carrying her daughter's basket cradle. She was ed by Arthur Lines, owner of coffee stall near the accident.

She is the wife of the younger brother of King George VI.

TOKIO MINISTER DECLARES CRISIS IN CHINA CRITICAL

Hirota Tells the Diet That Japan Is Prepared for Any Eventuality That May Develop.

SAYS STABILITY IN EAST IS GOAL

Anti-Japanese Sentiment in China of Utmost Concern; Soviet Border Source of Trouble.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, July 27.—Foreign Minister Koki Hirota told Parliament today that in the crisis between Japan and China "there exists the danger of an untoward outbreak at any moment."

Speaking in a diplomat's guarded terms, the Foreign Minister outlined the empire's foreign policy for the two chambers of the Diet, assembled for a two-weeks' special session.

Most of his address was devoted to the tense relations between Japan and China, which have been on the verge of war since a series of clashes began west of Peking July 1.

Hirota avoided mention of war, but declared that to ensure the safety of Japanese Nationals in China his Government was "prepared to use all available means consonant with the development of the situation."

The Foreign Minister declared other world powers had been fully informed of Japan's purposes in the current conflict and added, "I believe they understand fully Japan's attitude of patience and self-restraint."

Japan's relations with the United States, he asserted, "have been of late really good, being marked by ever growing amity." He said the Japanese economic mission which visited the United States in May and June had "accomplished much toward establishing closer contact between our two nations economically and otherwise."

He also spoke of improved contacts with Great Britain.

Japan's relations with China, he said, have been, "frankly speaking, far from satisfactory." This was due, he declared, to China's failure to appreciate Japan's basic policy, which he defined as "directed solely toward the realization of stability in East Asia through conciliation and co-operation between Japan, Manchoukuo and China and stopping the Communist invasion of the Orient."

Hirota made clear Japan's determination to gain a settlement of the North China conflict on her own terms.

"It is my earnest hope," he said, "that prompt reconsideration on the part of the Chinese authorities will lead to faithful execution of the terms reached on the night of July 11."

He declared that the clash west of Peking was "the logical consequence" of the fact that "today in Peking"

Regrets Anti-Japanese Moves.
He continued: "Our Government cannot but profoundly regret to note that anti-Japanese sentiments and movements have been encouraged and systematically exploited for unifying public opinion and arousing national consciousness and that untoward incidents evidently resulting therefrom are taking place in various quarters in China."

"China holds the key to settlement of the present incident," the Foreign Minister declared, "as it depends entirely upon what course she will choose to follow."

Hirota said that "the Japanese Government is deeply concerned over the state of things on the Manchoukuo Soviet frontier, which gives rise to frequent frictions."

Referring to Japan's quarrels with the Soviet Government over Japanese fishing rights in Russian waters and mining and other concessions in Soviet Saghalien, the Foreign Minister said "it is our policy never to tolerate" any changes calculated to destroy those interests.

The Japanese Army General Staff and War Department executives met shortly after dawn today to devise measures to deal with the Chinese crisis.

After conferring with his staff, Gen. Sugiyama, Minister of War, left for the palace to report to Emperor Hirohito.

The Emperor also received Admiral of the Fleet Prince Fushimi, chief of the naval general staff, and Field Marshal Prince Kanin, chief of the army general staff.

Japanese commanders on the spot are understood to have ordered a general punitive offensive against the Chinese in the Peiping area unless they withdraw. Under terms of the ultimatum all Chinese of the Thirty-seventh Division are to be out of the area west of Peiping by noon today and out of Peiping by noon tomorrow.

SAN FRANCISCO HOTEL STRIKE NEAR END

Culinary and Clerical Workers Accept Settlement—Negotiations With Others Continue.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Striking hotel workers who voted heavily to accept a compromise strike settlement plan returned to picket lines today when new labor difficulties kept this city's 19 major hotels closed for the eighth day.

The new tie-up involved engineers and laundry workers, who are negotiating unsuccessfully with operators for renewal of union contracts but are not on strike. Operators said they could see no gain in attempting to reopen until a settlement is reached.

Culinary and clerical workers, who voted 1531 to 613 yesterday in favor of a peace plan worked out through weeks of negotiations, returned to the picket lines in an effort to force through new agreements for the engineers and laundry workers. The latter did not appear in the lines.

Operators and union representatives expressed belief agreements could be worked out to allow the hotels—closed since May 1—to reopen tomorrow.

The strikers jubilantly described their peace terms as a union victory. Under the proposal, union demands for higher wages and a 40-hour week will be submitted to arbitration. The employers granted recognition but not preferential hiring to the union representing clerks and office workers.

Union officers explained the discrepancy between the total strike vote and the estimated 3200 strikers by stating many of the latter had obtained work in summer resorts, while others did not participate in the vote, supervised by Deputy County Registrar.

William A. Speers, business representative of the engineers, said a meeting was scheduled for today to discuss proposals offered by the hotel operators.

HOTELS DISCLAIM DESIRE TO BREAK UNION CONTRACT

Association's Labor Committee Chairman Declares Closed Shop Agreement Is Satisfactory.

The St. Louis Hotel Association, an organization of 28 large hotels, has no desire to abrogate the three-year closed shop agreement signed with the American Federation of Labor unions last May. A. D. Gates, manager of the Gatesworth Hotel, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter following a meeting yesterday of committees representing the association and the unions.

When the meeting was called by the association it was announced that the hotel men desired "certain corrections" in their labor agreement. Gates, chairman of the association's Labor Committee, who was designated spokesman for both sides, said the discussion dealt with general subjects of interest to the industry and the association saw no reason for trying to break the agreement.

"The labor unions say they are cleaning house, but that is their problem, not ours," Gates remarked, referring to the recent severance of union connections of several men.

An advisory committee of 24 labor leaders, appointed to protect the interest of the hotel unions, will meet this afternoon at the offices of the Central Trades & Labor Union.

TWO EX-CONVICTS CONFESS SENDING EXTORTION LETTERS

Arrested at Springfield, Ill., in Trap After Broker Had Received $1000 Demand.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 27.—Two ex-convicts arrested here last night have confessed sending extortion letters to Sim Fernandes, an investment broker, it was stated by Assistant State's Attorney Frank Pfeiffer today.

They were arrested, Pfeiffer said, in a trap set by police at the spot where they had arranged by letter to collect $1000 from Fernandes.

They identified themselves as Virgil Stevens, Texarkana, Ark., and George Arthur, alias Richard Bradley, Fayetteville, Ark.

Fernandes received a threatening letter Sunday night, demanding $1000. Police were notified. The arrests took place within a half-block of the city jail.

Arthur said he served two years in the Huntsville (Tex.) prison for forgery and Stevens said he served five years for murder, Pfeiffer stated.

Police said Arthur declared he was at one time a member of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball team, playing under another name.

TERMS STEEL 'MASSACRE' VIEWS 'PICTORIAL INDICTMENT'

New York, Police Commissioner Says Such Pictures "Can Destroy You."

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 27.—Photographs and motion pictures of the Memorial day steel strike massacre in South Chicago were called "a pictorial indictment" of a great police department by Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine of New York in an address today before the New York State Association of Police Chiefs.

Such pictures "can murder you and destroy you," Valentine told 400 law enforcement officers here for a three-day convention.

"Our job is to preserve the peace, protect property, prevent disorder and arrest law violators," he said, expressing hope that all labor disturbances may be settled without violence.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia said: "The policemen's night-stick must not be used in the settlement of economic disputes."

SHOE COMPANY FAILS TO STOP NLRB HEARING

Examiner Denies Motion to Dismiss Charges Against Hamilton-Brown.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNION, Mo., July 27.—A motion to dismiss charges that the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. had engaged in unfair labor practices at its Union plant was denied today by Trial Examiner William Seagle of the National Labor Relations Board.

Luke E. Hart of St. Louis, company president, entered an oral demurrer, asserting evidence did not substantiate the charges. On a second motion, to dismiss the charges as to the more than 200 former employees named in the complaints, the Examiner reserved ruling.

In denying a request for an adjournment until tomorrow morning, the Examiner ordered Hart to proceed with his defense this afternoon. Hart argued that 105 witnesses had testified in the hearing and that he had been given ample opportunity to study the record, which now consists of more than 3000 typewritten pages and about 50 documentary exhibits.

Foreman to Testify.

The company's first witness, Hart said, will be Harry Bruecks, cutting room foreman. Former Hamilton-Brown plant employees have testified that Bruecks lent his aid to an anti-union campaign within the plant. It was indicated that Bruecks would be followed by the stand by Tom Rowland, who has been quoted by many witnesses as making antagonistic remarks against United Shoe Workers of America, a CIO affiliate.

One witness said Rowland remarked, "I want to tell you that anyone signing his name for this organization (United Shoe Workers) is signing himself out of a job." The foreman, witnesses said, declared that the plant would be closed before recognition would be given the union.

Replying to Hart's demand for dismissals in connection with individuals, David C. Shaw, board's attorney, said the board did not contend that all cases were of equal merit.

Hearing Proceeds Slowly.

The hearing moved slowly this morning and yesterday. Attorneys used more than an hour today in completing a stipulation that about 140 workers were discharged for refusal to join the Commercial Shoe Workers' organization, which had been attacked as a company union. About 30 names were added to the group today through an amendment submitted by Shaw.

The complaints allege also the illegal discharge of about 95 other employees because of union activity. All of this group have testified in the hearing, which began July 8.

Elmer Jones, secretary of Local 125 of United Shoe Workers, who was recalled for further cross-examination, testified concerning membership records. Hart apparently was attempting to lay the groundwork for an attack on the union's contention that it had a majority of plant workers.

Evidence has been introduced that the union represented 374 of the 655 employees on May 17, when demands for recognition were made. Commercial Shoe Workers, formed late in June, said it had a membership of 351 of the 508 employees working on that day.

Applicant a Member.

Jones testified that an applicant became a member for purposes of collective bargaining when the application card was signed. He said the union's rule applied regardless of whether initiation fees or dues were paid at the time.

The union secretary revealed that several members were being carried on a "loan" basis. He denied that he used threats in soliciting plant employees for memberships in the CIO local. Jones, first witness in the proceeding, was discharged May 3.

William Gerling, who was active in organizing the United Shoe Workers local, was recalled today for further cross-examination. He also denied the use of threats in obtaining members for the organization. Gerling was re-examined on previous testimony in which he quoted Charles Jannings as asserting the plant would be closed when all its employees had joined the union.

Specifically the firm is charged with restraint of employees' rights under the Labor Act, formation and domination of a union, discrimination in employment and refusal to bargain collectively. The complaints, filed by United Shoe Workers, grew out of a strike at the plant on March 31.

They discussed the historical background of the memorial with John L. Nagle, superintendent, in contemplation of the expected visit of members of the Advisory Board of the National Park Service.

TAMPA EX-CHIEF FREE OF MURDER CHARGE

Case Growing Out of Flogging
Dismissed on Motion of State's Attorney.

By the Associated Press.

BARTOW, Fla., July 27.—Judge Robert Dewell of the Polk County Criminal Court yesterday dismissed second degree murder charge against R. G. Tittsworth, former Tampa Police Chief.

The charge grew out of the Tampa flogging case in which nine other former police and special officers of the Tampa force were charged with abducting and flogging Joseph Shoemaker and two other men, organizers of unemployed labor. Shoemaker died of his injuries.

Manuel Clover, Polk County solicitor, presented the motion asking for dismissal of the charge against Tittsworth. A kidnapping charge had been dropped previously by a directed verdict. Trial of the other nine men on second degree murder charges will start here Oct. 5. Five of the nine were convicted of kidnapping Eugene Poulinot, one of the victims, but obtained a new trial in appeal to the Supreme Court.

Woman War Correspondent Killed.

CANADA TO LINK ITS COASTS WITH OWN AIR SYSTEM

Halifax-Vancouver Line, With Government Subsidy, May Begin Service
by End of Year.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MONTREAL, July 27.—Regularly scheduled, 21-hour flights across Canada's farms, forests, lakes and mountains soon will link Halifax and Vancouver by air.

Survey work on this new Dominion transportation enterprise, incorporated as Trans-Canada Air Lines, already is well advanced and officials of the Government-owned Canadian National Railway Co., which controls it, have announced that regular service may be inaugurated before the end of the year, certainly on Prairie and Pacific divisions, which measure about 1500 miles.

Like the C. N. R., whose trains its planes will outdistance, Trans-Canada has been granted a governmental subsidy equal to its annual deficit until 1940, but it is expected that its mail contracts alone will pay its operating costs at the end of three years.

In addition to the need for Canadian air mail carriers, the creation of the new transport system was urged by the plans of the Imperial Airways and Pan-American Airways for a trans-Atlantic air service. Canada, through the Trans-Canada, is sharing in this project with the United Kingdom and Irish Free State air lines, and is obligated to fly ocean mail across the continent once Atlantic schedules are established.

Capitalized at $5,000,000. The new company has issued 5,000,000 shares of stock, representing its authorized capitalization of $5,000,000. All of these shares are held by the Federal railway system, and it has named three of the line's directors, the other three being named by the Canadian Government.

S. J. Hungerford, president of the Canadian National Railway Co., also is president and chairman of the board of Trans-Canada. However, for its operating chief the new company was obliged to cross the border into the United States to get Philip G. Johnson, former president of United Air Lines and other American transport companies as well as of the Boeing Airplane Co., as its vice-president in charge of operations.

It was he who made the first flights over the proposed routes of the new line and drew up the plans for its setup of fields, lights, radio beams, weather reporting service and other commercial flying accessories. And it is he who is expected to see to it that the line observes the governmental edict to maintain tariffs and services comparable to those of other North American systems.

Now Use U. S. Lines.

"Canada is one of the few countries in the world without a national scheduled air service," said C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, when he presented the measure incorporating Trans-Canada to the Ottawa House of Commons. Many Canadian citizens when traveling from one point to another in Canada find they must use air lines in the United States.

"Air mail stamps are sold in Canada, and much of our mail is routed across the border, transported by the air services of the United States, and then brought back across the border at the point nearest to destination. The volume of this air mail is sufficient to warrant the establishment of a direct service in Canada."

"Canada is a country of vast distances and sparse population. If the time needed to travel between the west and the east could be cut by three or four by a new air service, the people at the extremes of this country would be able to travel more frequently to the centers of government, business and industry, and the inter-relations of the country would be facilitated."

Howe also pointed out that while the new company was protected against loss, its profits were strictly limited. He said it was expected to perform a national service at or near cost.

$1,750,000 for Equipment.

About $1,750,000 of the line's capital is to be invested in equipment, according to present estimates. Another $1,250,000 represents Canada's share in the joint English-Irish-Canadian Atlantic air venture, and the balance is to be set aside for expansion. Operating costs are now estimated at about $1,000,000 the year.

Three 10-passenger Lockheed-Electra planes, costing $75,000 and having a cruising speed of 180 miles an hour, are to be delivered this month and next. Four 14-passenger planes of the same design, but with a cruising speed of 200 miles, are to be delivered in December. It is planned to man all of them with Canadian pilots who have been undergoing an intensive training course on the Pacific Coast.

The route to be flown is Halifax, Moncton, Montreal, Winnipeg, Regina, Lethbridge and Vancouver, with a connection to Toronto in the east, and from Lethbridge to Calgary and Edmonton in the west. Other mail-passenger connections planned for the near future are Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor, and Vancouver to Seattle.

HOSPITAL ACCUSED OF TURNING AWAY MAN SHOT BY ROBBERS

Chicago Prosecutor Charges It Refused to Aid Patient Who Couldn't Pay.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 27.—The State's Attorney's office filed a complaint in Felony Court yesterday charging the Lake View Hospital with violating a law in refusing medical attention to Lige Debowski, a chef who was shot five times in a fight with robbers July 17. The case is the first of its kind against a Chicago hospital since the act became effective in 1927.

Debowski, father of two children, frustrated the robbery of a liquor store in a fight in which two holdup men were killed.

He was taken to Lake View Hospital by police and then transferred to the county hospital when his wife said he could not pay $150 for hospital treatment and no one could be found to guarantee the bill. At the county hospital last night it was said he had a good chance of recovery.

Citizens raised $1000 for him and his family. The act under which the charge was filed requires a hospital to give medical treatment or first aid in the case of an accident or injury. Penalty on conviction is a fine of from $50 to $200.

CONGRESSMAN SHANNON TO RETIRE AT END OF TERM

Kansas Cityan, Who Is 70, Says "Doing Nothing" Is Tiresome—Critiques Senate on Court Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Representative Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, Mo., said yesterday he was going to retire from Congress at the end of his present term because he is "disgusted." This is Shannon's fourth term in Congress.

"There is nothing as tiresome as sitting down and doing nothing," he said. "That's what we've been doing for months—just waiting, waiting and waiting."

The 70-year-old Missourian, whose health has been poor for about two years, said he didn't think there was "much need of Congress any more."

"After waiting for months," he said, "we are told by the wilful eight of the Senate Judiciary Committee just what we have to take in the way of a judicial reform bill. I understand that the bill will be attached on to some other bill as a rider, which means that the House will have to have to take it just as it comes over here or leave it."

Shannon, a supporter of President Roosevelt's original judicial reorganization bill, attributed its shelving to a combination he said was composed of "offspring of the Liberty League, the minority party and a group from within."

Shannon said the President was

RANKIN DEMANDS CURB ON LABOR BOARD ACTIVITIES

Mississippi Congressman
Says Agents of Body
Helped Destroy Cotton
Mill in Tupelo.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 27.—Representative Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi, accusing the Labor Relations Board of "conspiring with Communist influences to destroy Southern industries," said in a formal statement yesterday, he expected to ask the administration to remove the present members of the board or curtail their activities.

Rankin, co-author of the Tennessee Valley Authority Act and one of the leading proponents of the administration's power policies, was the second member of Congress to criticize the board within the last week.

Senator Nye (Rep.), North Dakota, issued a statement last Thursday saying the board "has such a pronounced CIO bias that the average man regards it as an adjunct."

Refers to Tupelo Incident.
Rankin spoke specifically of the activity of the board's representatives in Tupelo, Miss., his home. "The ruthless manner in which they (board agents) helped to destroy and forced the liquidation of the cotton mill in Tupelo, throwing all the employees out of work, and the brutal manner in which they are now trying to destroy the garment factories in that city, is enough to stir the people of my State to revolt," his statement said.

Rankin mentioned three garment mills, the Tupelo Garment Co., Reed Brothers and Milam & Co. None of these companies had any labor trouble before the "CIO's" came in, he asserted. Then eight men attempted to start a sit-down strike and were discharged, he said.

Labor board officials commented that they had issued a complaint against the Tupelo Garment Co. and had conducted a hearing July 6 in Tupelo. No decision on the complaint, charging discriminatory discharges, has been made, they added. Spokesmen for the board said it also has received allegations against Reed Brothers, but that it has issued no complaint against that concern.

Would Oppose Appropriations.
In his statement, Rankin declared he would oppose appropriating another dollar for the board until its representatives cease "their Communist activities." He added he would ask for changes in the Wagner Labor Relations Act unless these activities are halted.

"I cannot withhold my protest until the streets of southern towns and cities are stained with the blood of innocent people as a result of the activities of these irresponsible representatives of the so-called Labor Relations Board," Rankin continued.

"I have affidavits from responsible people in Tupelo to the effect that these representatives of the so-called Labor Relations Board boasted that they were going to close every factory in the city before they quit, and that when they got through with it, there would be no Tupelo left."

"They are flouting the law, stirring up strife, cutting the throat of organized labor, and doing this administration more harm than all other influences combined."

GEORGE VI REHIRE FATHER'S RETAINERS FIRED BY EDWARD

Re-establishes His Parent's Policies in Management of Royal Estates.

(Copyright, 1937.)
LONDON, July 27.—King George VI is continuing to push forward the re-establishment of the policies of his father, the late King George V, in the management and upkeep of the family estates.

Last fall King Edward decided to cut down expenditures on the royal estates. He reduced the number of horses in the royal stables and the number of cows and dogs. He gave notices of dismissal to 40 grooms, game keepers, farm workers and others. Now his brother and successor, King George VI, has withdrawn these notices and reinstated the men. On the stud farms they are busy replacing the pedigreed horses and cattle in which George V took such a delight, but in which Edward was not interested.

No pheasants were bred on royal estates last year, but this summer game keepers reared a good stock of birds. Chumbers spaniels, favored by Edward, will be replaced by Labrador retrievers, which are especially suitable as shooting dogs in Norfolkshire's wooded country.

STENCH BOMB IS THROWN IN STRIKE-BOUND BUILDING

Fullerton Manager Says Odor Lasted for 10 Minutes; Union Votes Assessment.
A stench bomb was thrown into an elevator shaft at the Fullerton building, Seventh and Pine streets, this morning. A strike of C I O union building service employees has been in progress at the building two weeks.

Claude Bakewell, building manager, told police the odor spread through the corridors and was noticeable for about 10 minutes. Members of the Building Service Employees' Union last night voted an assessment of 50 cents each on a total membership of 800 to carry on the strike at the Fullerton Building. The walkout followed Bakewell's refusal to sign a union agreement covering 25 employees.

REFERENDUM SOUGHT ON GASOLINE TAX RISE

Petitions Ready, 65,000 Signatures Needed to Put Issue Up to Missouri Voters.

Petitions for a referendum on the 1-cent increase in the 2-cent a gallon State gasoline tax, which will become effective Dec. 8, 1938, are ready for circulation by the newly-organized Gasoline Tax Referendum Committee, Insurance Exchange Building.

Filing of the referendum petitions within 90 days after adjournment of the last Legislature would enable voters to approve or reject the increase at the next general election, Nov. 8, 1938. Petitions must be returned to the committee not later than next Aug. 23. They will be available at filling stations throughout the State for signature of any qualified voter.

The referendum was proposed, the petitions say, after it became apparent that the Legislature would pass the bill for the increase despite protests of the public.

Voters should be permitted to express approval or disapproval of the increase, the petitions say, because they limited gasoline taxes for 10 years in 1928, because they have approved all major road legislation in the past and because additional revenue is not needed for maintenance of highways.

Members of the committee are George Allee, president of the Missouri Oil Men's Association, Kansas City; Mercer Arnold of Joplin, former member of the Board of Censors of the University of Missouri; Carl Barker of University City, president of the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce; Phil Brockman, former president of the Greater St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association; L. ANOTHER SOUTH SIDE
SEWER SECTION READY

Service Board Prepares to Put Potomac-Cherokee-Arkansas
Line Into Use.

Formal acceptance of a newly finished $876,686 section of the Southern Arsenals Relief Sewer was taken up by the Board of Public Service today, preparatory to putting the improvement into use. It is part of a $2,500,000 system designed to end flood trouble in a large South Side area; some other sections have been finished and some remain under construction. The new line runs under Potomac street, between Texas and Grace avenues, with a branch under Tennessee avenue between Potomac and Cherokee street, under Cherokee and Tennessee and Arkansas between Cherokee and Crittenden street.

To build the branch it was necessary to tunnel through rock, lining the cut with concrete. The tube there varies from five to eight and one-half feet in diameter.

Of the cost of the entire section, $233,146 was derived from a P. W. A. grant, while the remaining $643,540 was assessed in special tax bills against property held to be benefited in the large surrounding drainage area, which was irregular in shape.

Chief candidates mentioned for the leadership, temporarily being held by William P. Kenneally, were Representative Christopher D. Sullivan of the Second Assembly District and United States Marshal John J. Kelly. Kelly is backed by James J. Hines, long powerful in Tammany and a leader in the move to throw the Hall's support to Whelan. Sullivan is supported by Albert Marinelli, who led many unsuccessful attempts to oust Dooling.

BOND ELECTION SEPT. 9

On $75,000 issue and Choose

The Trustees.

The bond issue election for the Two-Mile Creek Sewer District will be held Sept. 9, the St. Louis County Board of Election Commissioners decided today. Voters of the district will pass on a $75,000 bond issue and choose three trustees. A majority of two-thirds of those voting is required to authorize the bonds.

The district includes parts of Laclede and Rock Hill, and all of Grand Oak. Total cost of the sewerage would be $169,000, including $61,000 expected from the Public Works Administration, and $35,000 to be paid by Kirkwood for trunk line connections with the proposed sewer.

outline. Benefit tax bills were prepared against about 12,000 pieces of property.

The city itself was named as recipient for one bill, amounting to about $40,000, levied on municipal property holdings in the region. This will be the only section of the Southern Arsenals Relief Sewer for which property owners will be asked to pay a direct share of the cost.

Area to be served by the whole sewer development is bounded roughly by Grand boulevard, Lynch and Meramec streets and the river.

COPELAND'S POSITION

Defections Among Tammany
Men Over Mayoralty
Candidates Expected.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The death of James J. Dooling, leader of Tammany Hall, left Tammany with a problem of what to do about Senator Royal S. Copeland, Dooling's candidate for Mayor.

Selected less than a week ago by Tammany Executive Committee, Copeland was Dooling's personal choice, and was expected to be elected.

Copeland was weakened as a candidate by the death of the driving force behind his campaign. A number of the members of the Executive Committee voted to endorse Copeland reluctantly and solely because Dooling had asked them to do so.

Less than 12 hours after Dooling's death the strong probability appeared that there would be defections among the district leaders that would impair Copeland's tenuous hold on Tammy's support.

Copeland expects to come to New York to attend the Dooling funeral, which will be held Thursday. While here he will discuss his campaign strategy with his advisers.

In the event that a sufficient number of Tammany executive members withdraw their support to make the Senator's position untenable, efforts will be renewed at once to have Tammany Hall unite with the New Deal wing on a candidate who would obviate a primary fight.

With the certainty that the Democratic leaders of the other four city counties would not consider withdrawing Grover A. Whalen, their candidate for Mayor.

With Dooling dead, Tammany was confronted once more with factional war over succession to the leadership. Because of Dooling's health and the fear that he would not be able to conduct the mayoralty campaign, a movement was started last winter to supplant him.

There was never any doubt that the votes existed to take the leadership away from him, but the factions opposing him were never able to agree on a candidate to succeed him.

As a result, the votes were never united against Dooling.

What course the Hall will pursue will be determined immediately after Dooling's funeral. The fact that Aug. 10 is the last day for filing primary petitions makes quick action imperative.

Chief candidates mentioned for the leadership, temporarily being held by William P. Kenneally, were Representative Christopher D. Sullivan of the Second Assembly District and United States Marshal John J. Kelly.

Kelly is backed by James J. Hines, long powerful in Tammany and a leader in the move to throw the Hall's support to Whalen. Sullivan is supported by Albert Marinelli, who led many unsuccessful attempts to oust Dooling.

Half of Books Democrats Sold Were Never Delivered

Corporation Heads Paid $250 Each for Them as "Judicious Investment."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.—The New York Times says "an informal investigation" had disclosed that "about half" of the Democratic National Convention souvenir books for which corporation heads paid $250 each were never delivered. It was disclosed in a Washington yesterday that the Democratic National Committee realized $185,905 from sale of the books.

Many purchasers simply paid for the souvenirs without expecting delivery, according to the newspaper, and regarded the expenditure as "a judicious investment in the good-will of the administration."

Others who insisted on delivery found themselves up against the problem of what to do with the books after they arrived, said the Times.

The paper quoted Robert R. Young, chairman of the Allegheny Corporation and the Chesapeake Corporation, as stating he had informed the distributors to send the worth of the souvenirs to Young cousins, nieces and other relatives. For this service, Young paid the distributors, John B. Gallagher & Co., an extra charge for "insulating the names of the recipients on the covers of the volumes."

History of the Davis Cup Series

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 27.

HERE have been 32 Davis Cup competitions since 1900, with interruptions only in 1901, 1910 and the war years of 1915-18 inclusive.

Here's how the challenge round victories were distributed: United States (11)—1900, 1902, 1913, 1920-26 inclusive, and 1937. Great Britain (9)—1903-06 inclusive, 1912, 1933-36 inclusive. Australia (6)—1907, 1908, 1909, 1911, 1914 and 1919. France (6)—1927-32 inclusive.

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 27.

Frustrated for a decade, the United States regained the Davis Cup, emblematic of international tennis supremacy, today as Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, trounced Charles Edgar Hare, 6-2, 6-4, 6-2, for the point that enabled the Stars and Stripes to clinch the challenge round series with Great Britain.

Parker's victory, gained under sensational circumstances, gave the United States its third, and decisive, point of the five-match series. Sorrel-topped Don Budge, undefeated this year, whipped Henry Wilfred (Bunny) Austin, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 as the United States completed its rout of Great Britain's forces.

Maintains Clean Record.

Despite the fact that the pressure was off, the Oakland, Cal., ace was in no mood to spoil his unmarred record. Stroke experimentation cost him the second set, but thereafter he kept Austin under full control.

Incidentally that second set was only the fourth Budge has dropped all year. He lost one to Parker in the semifinals of the all-England championships; and dropped the first two in his spectacular five-set match with Baron Gottfried von Cramm in the interzone finals.

Parker, the decided under-dog as a result of his sad showing against Austin last Saturday, played virtually flawless tennis to score the most important triumph of his career.

Effective on his service, uncannily accurate with all his shots, the 21-year-old Milwaukee star ran Hare, a newcomer to Davis Cup tennis, ragged with well-placed lobs whenever the big British southpaw sought to take the net.

It was no contest at any stage of the proceedings, for Hare never could get going against Parker's clever generalship.

Parker's victory not only gave the United States the trophy for the first time since France won it at Germantown in 1927 but like-wise vindicated his selection, by Capt. Walter L. Pate, as a member of the challenge round team, replacing Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta.

The team result had been forecast well in advance for Great Britain, weakened by the loss of Fred Perry, now a professional, and of George Patrick Hughes, ace doubles artist, through illness, obviously was no match for the American team.

The United States squad, incidentally, was the youngest perhaps, that ever competed in the challenge round. Budge, at 22, is the "veteran" of the team. Parker and Gene Mako of Los Angeles, each is 21.

When Parker, leading two sets to none and 5-2 in the third, finally won the eighth and final game on three successive errors by Hare, he smiled for the first time during the day. Then he walked jubilantly off the court, filled up a glass of water and poured it down his back.

U. S. Stars Celebrate.

The scene in the Americans' dressing room following Parker's ridiculously easy victory resembled a world series clubhouse after the final game.

Budge, Mako, and Grant took turns banging Parker's back while Pate beamed expansively. Parker alone had nothing to say but he looked plenty pleased.

ST. LOUIS BOY LOSES IN FIRST ROUND OF JUNIOR TENNIS PLAY

DELAWARE, Wis., July 27.—Billy McGehee of New Orleans, runner-up for the national interscholastic prep meet tennis crown in the East last week, won his first round junior division match of the Western junior and boys' tennis tournament yesterday, defeating Art Nielson of Winnetka, Ill., 6-1, 0-6, 6-0.

Eighty-nine players from 17 States were registered for the annual meet.

In another junior first round match, Allen McDonald, Wichita, Kan., defeated Henry Tieber, St. Louis, 6-2, 6-0.

In the boys' singles Gardner Larned, Chicago, defeated Felix Smart, Pine Bluff, Ark., 6-1, 6-2.

Win Arkansas Title.

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 27.—The Beirne (Ark.) Lumbermen won the first annual Arkansas semi-pro baseball championship here yesterday by defeating the Charleston Tigers, 4 to 3, in an 11-inning battle closing the seven-day tournament.

The new "Dead" Ball.

ALTHOUGH none has been tried out here by the St. Louis clubs, the new "da-rabbed" baseball provided for by a regulation passed at the winter baseball meeting, is being tested around the circuit.

The "deadening" of the ball is still apparently in an experimental stage, for the new baseballs still have lots of rabbit left in them, according to H. G. Salsinger, sports editor of the Detroit News.

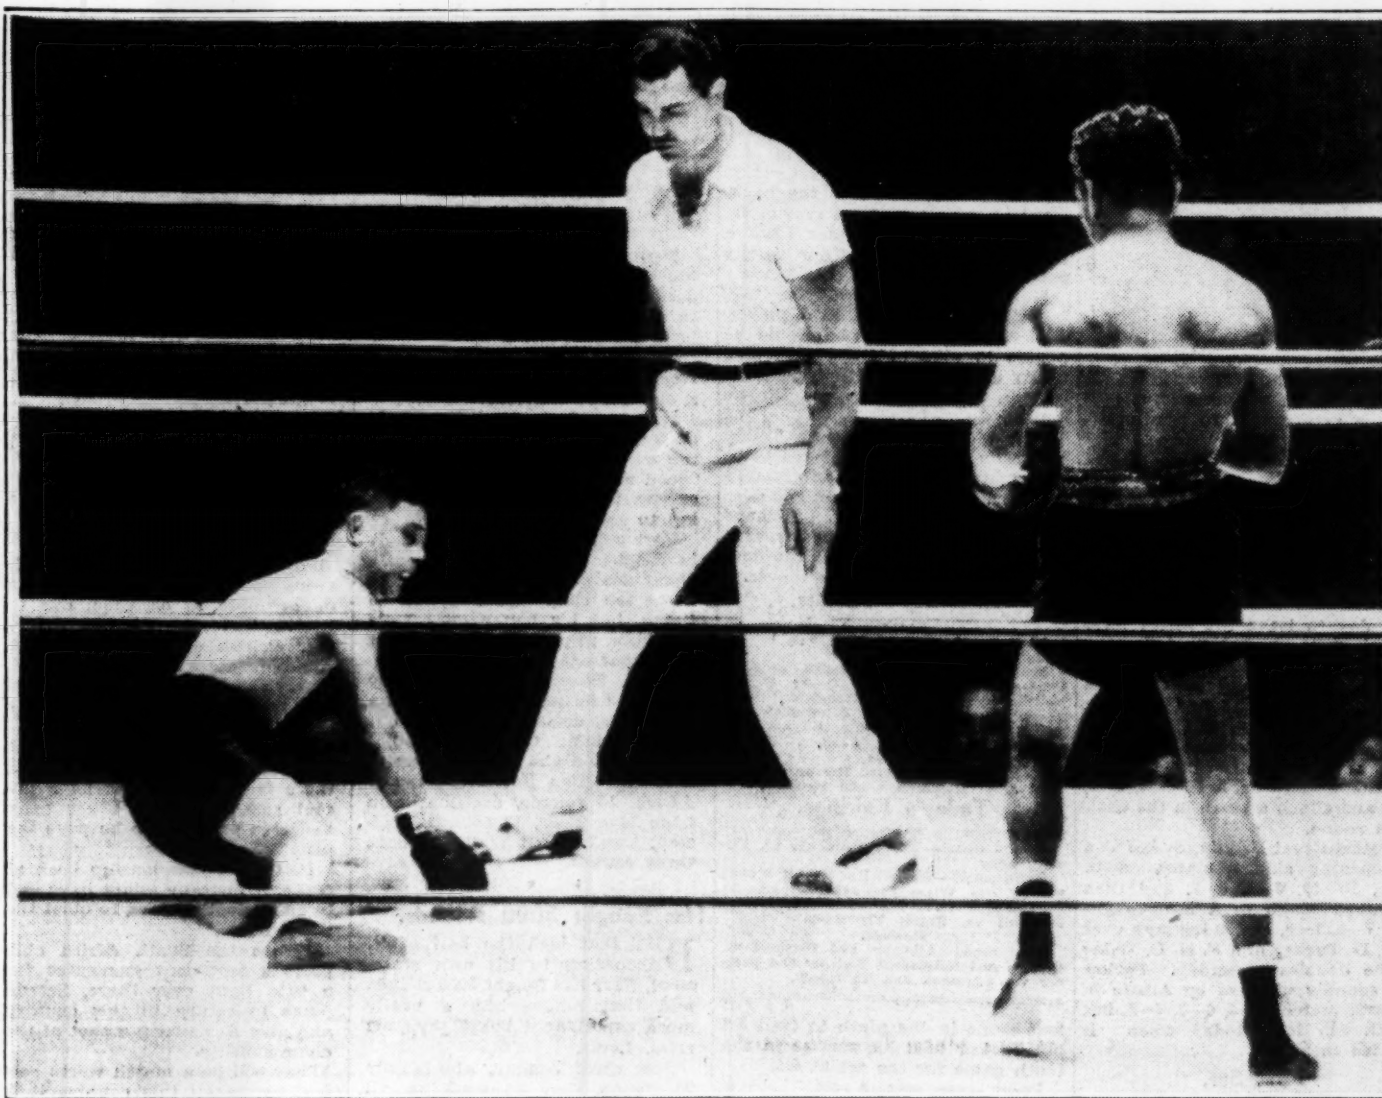

"Some of the new balls were tried out at Navin Field in batting practice," writes Salsinger, "but if they are less lively than the ones in current use, pitchers and batters failed to notice the difference."

"The new ball has loose seams and the stitches are of three strands where the present stitches are of two. The cover is slightly thicker."

"After the new balls were hit several times yesterday, they became lopsided."

"As for the liveliness of them, Goose Goslin hit three into the upper deck of the right-field pavilion, and other players reached the outfield fences with drives."

Hey, Wesley! It's Time to Get Up!

Pedro Montanez, Puerto Rican mulatto, scoring a one-round knockout against Wesley Jackson at Los Angeles. The kayo occurred two minutes and forty seconds after the start of the first round. The referee is Jack Dempsey. (Story on Page 2).

Browns Give Koupal Early Lead and Win From Red Sox, 8-5

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
BOSTON, July 27.—Manager Jimmy Bottomley of the Browns started his first eastern invasion today by seeing his team knock off the Red Sox, 8 to 5, with Lou Koupal going the route, holding Boston to nine hits and not visibly bothered by two homers in the sixth, one Jimmy Fox's twenty-fourth circuit crash of the season, the other Eric McNair's sixth round-tripper.

The big frame of the afternoon was the five-run third, at Johnny Marcum's expense. Therein the Browns massed five of their 15 hits, including doubles by Davis, Clift and Lipscomb, singles by Vosmik and Hemsley and an intentional pass to Beau Bell.

Clift led the attack for the visitors with a pair of doubles and Knick Hemsley was tossed out at second and both Joe Vosmik and Rollie Hemsley made three singles.

The Browns came close to making a triple play in the last of the third when Billy Knickerbocker caught Joe Cronin's drive with the bases loaded and none out. Knick tossed to Gerald Lipscomb at second, but the latter's pey to Harry Davis at first was just a little too slow to include Ben Chapman in the slaughter of the Yawkeymen.

Sammy West on Koupal were the only Browns to go hitless against both Marcum and Fred Ostermueler. Twice the Browns kicked in with fast double plays behind Koupal, both times the ball going from Clift to Lipscomb to Davis.

FIRST INNING — BROWNS — Davis grounded out to Fox. West went out the same way. Vosmik was thrown out by Cronin.

RED SOX — Lipscomb tossed out Mills. Chapman lined to Knickerbocker. Cronin was tossed out by Lipscomb.

SECOND — BROWNS — Clift doubled to the left field fence, Bell flied to Chapman, Clift taking third after the catch. Knickerbocker was thrown out by Cronin, Clift scoring. Hemsley singled to left, sending Hemsley to third. Koupal was

JAPAN'S TENNIS CHAMPION IN QUARTERFINAL AT SEA BRIGHT

By the Associated Press.
SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 27.—Jiro Yamagishi, champion of Japan, led the men's singles field into the quarter finals of the fiftieth annual Sea Bright invitation tournament today by defeating Norbert Burgess, the Chicago dark horse, 6-3, 6-2.

Burgess, who upset fifth-seeded Charles Harris of West Palm Beach in the first round, was no match for the acrobatic Yamagishi.

Wilmer L. Allison of Austin, Tex., Yamagishi in the round of eight by topping Norman Bickel, Burgess' companion from Chicago, 6-2, 6-3.

Champion Eliminated.

Fourth-seeded John McDiarmid of Chicago, the defending champion, tumbled out of the tournament as the field reached the quarterfinals. J. Gilbert Hall, New York veteran, whipped McDiarmid in an extended three set struggle, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4.

Bobby Riggs, the Coast youth who ranks fourth nationally, dropped a set to Hal Surface of Kansas City, but steadied to triumph, 1-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Don McNeill of Oklahoma City, who holds only a junior ranking in the Southwest, went down fighting under the attack of ninth ranked Joseph Hunt 8-6, 9-7.

Unseeded Frank D. Guernsey Jr. of Orlando, Fla., conqueror of Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., in a second round upset, trounced Sidney B. Wood Jr. of New York 8-6, 7-5, to gain the quarterfinals.

Frank X. Shields, former Davis Cup star, back in singles competition after a sojourn in the films, turned back Robert Harman of Berkeley, Cal., 6-1, 6-3 to reach the quarterfinals.

Alice Marble of Los Angeles and sturdy Jadwiga Jedzejewska of Poland marched into the quarterfinals today with easy second-round triumphs.

MIZE STARTS RALLY BY HITTING HOMER WITH MAN ON BASE

By J. Roy Stockton.
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, July 27.—St. Johnson, newest ace of the Cardinal pitching staff, opposed the great Carl Hubbell this afternoon, in the first game of a series of three with the second-place Giants.

Blondy Ryan, spark plug of the New York team during its 1933 championship race, returned to the club this afternoon and replaced Mickey Haslin at shortstop. The Giants also have bought Ben Cantwell from Jersey City and Haslin and George Davis will be released to keep the club in the player limit. Haslin will be sent either to Jersey City or Kansas City of the American Association.

It was ladies' day and about 5000 women and 5000 cash customers attended.

Randy Moore, outfielder and catcher recently obtained in a trade from the Dodgers for Paul Chervin, who refused to report at that time, was in a Cardinal uniform and is expected to be on the eligible list in a few days.

Moore has applied for reinstatement and has been advised it will be granted July 31. Branch Rickey said it was his intention to keep Moore with the Cardinal club through the rest of the season.

Parker, Moore and Magerkurth were the umpires.

THE GAME: FIRST—GIANTS—Chiozza struck out. Durocher threw out Whitehead. Joe Moore flied to Medwick. CARDINALS—Terry Moore flied to Berger. Guttridge fouled to Leslie. Mize struck out.

CARDINALS—Medwick flied to Berger. Padgett singled to center. Padgett went to second on a wild pitch, but when he tried for third he was out, Danning to Chiozza. Brown was called out on strikes.

THIRD—GIANTS—Ryan flied to Terry Moore. Hubbell fouled to Owen. Chiozza fanned but had to be thrown out, Owen to Mize.

CARDINALS—Durocher flied to Joe Moore. Owen singled to left. Johnson beat out a slow grounder to Chiozza, but Owen overran second and was caught off the bag, Chiozza to Whitehead. Terry popped to Ryan.

FOURTH — GIANTS — Johnson threw out Whitehead. Joe Moore singled to left for the first hit off Johnson. Berger doubled to left, Joe Moore stopping at third. Ott was purposely passed, filling the bases. Leslie lined to Medwick. Joe Moore scored. Danning grounded to Mize. ONE RUN.

One Horse Killed and Several Others Injured by Freak Electrical Storm at Saratoga.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, July 27. — Appealing, four-year-old son of Wise Counsellor from the Motor City Circuit, today holds the record of winning run on the fastest six furlongs of the year on the American track. The speedy colt reeled off the distance in 1:09 2-5, under 117 pounds at Suffolk Downs, yesterday. The time not only hung up a new track and New England record, but came within two-fifths of a second of matching Coney's world mark established at Coney Island (now River Downs) two years ago.

SARATOGA SPRINGS N. Y., July 27.—Max Hirsch's challenge for Saratoga's rich stakes has been weakened considerably as the result of a freak electrical storm which yesterday knocked out the legs of his horses, three of them highly regarded.

The storm, which killed W. S. Kilmer's little known two-year-old, Gino Vile, felled Dawn Play from Robert Kieburg's King Ranch, Mrs. Julia M. Loft's Mosawrite, Mrs. Parker Corning's Thanksgiving and five others. Dawn Play, champion three-year-old filly of the year, won at the Belmont and Coaching Club Oaks at Belmont Park before traveling west to take the American Derby. Mosawrite is highly regarded among

The lightning played queer tricks in the barn for it seemed to pick out the outstanding horses. The bolt first hit Dawn Play, skipped three stalls and struck Thanksgiving and then missed two more before knocking down Mossawte. The three, together with Mrs. Corning's two-year-old Down East, were unconscious for several hours.

Will Take Time to Examine.
Hirsch said it would be two or three days before he'll be able to determine whether the shock will have any serious effect on his horses.

"I've always heard that lightning, like a horse, has peculiar ways," said Hirsch.

"Where the lightning struck I was having lunch in my kitchen close to the barn. I felt something strike my foot and guessed what it was. The next thing I knew the chef was lying flat on his back. He apparently had been struck by the same bolt that clipped me on the foot."

When the trainer reached the stable, the stricken animals were staggering about and falling in the

OF FIGHT APPEAL

ES 3-4 MILE IN 1:09.3 WITH 17 POUNDS UP FOR A RECORD

One Horse Killed and Several Others Injured by Freak Electrical Storm at Saratoga.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, July 27.—Appealing, four-year-old son of Wise Counselor from the Motor City Stable, today holds the record of having run the fastest six furlongs of the year on the American turf. The speedy colt, under 17 pounds at Saratoga Downs, yesterday. The time not only hung up a new track and New England record, but came within two-fifths of a second of matching Crag's world mark established at Coney Island (now River Downs) two years ago.

Which Way, Boys?

The half-way mark finds the Gas House gang only 10 games behind the Cubs and 11½ games ahead of the Phillies. The season is still young with plenty of leeway on either side.

All Set.

UPON their late lamented trip to the Gas House gang began to slip. Their victories were few; but back upon the old home grounds they'll forge ahead by leaps and bounds.

At least we hope they do. Charley Ruffing with a record of 12-3 is having one of the best seasons of his career. Due to his failure to come to terms with the Yankees as to the amount of his annual stipend Charley did not start his training in Chicago. Indicating that it might be well for some of the clubs that have been leaving their pennants in Florida to pitch their training camp on the shores of Lake Michigan.

Mickey Cochrane has reported for active duty as manager of the Tigers but Schoolboy Rowe has been fired for the balance of the season. However, it appears to be a net gain for the Tigers.

In sitting down on the Pole, it seems that those boys from the Soviet were just following an old Russian custom. "And freedom shrieked when Kosciuszko fell."

It looks as though the Yankees are the only thing between Chicago and a nickel world series. But what a stymie!

Spring training trips are not so much for the physical well being of the athletes as it is the importance of calling attention of the clientele to the fact that their favorite obsession is still in possession of a franchise and will be found doing business at the grandstand on or about the middle of April as usual.

LOEBBS, FORMER PURDUE END, TO AID CONZELMAN

The Bears' football coaching staff, broken up a few weeks ago when Line Coach Bullman accepted a post at the Missouri School of Mines, has been brought up to full strength again, according to an announcement made this morning by Head Coach Jimmy Conzelman.

Conzelman announced the appointment of Frank Loebbs, Purdue 1936, to round out the staff. Previously Conzelman had announced the selection of Frank Koczak, Notre Dame, as one of his assistants.

Loebbs, who played end for Purdue and in 1935 was voted the "most valuable" player on the team by members of the squad, has had one year's coaching experience. He last fall he handled the Huntington (W. Va.) high school team and won the state championship.

Besides the two assistants named, Conzelman said that Mike Zboyowski, brainy quarterback of Conzelman's recent teams, would also assist in the coaching department.

SENATE TABLES ANTI-LYNCHING BILL, 41 TO 34

Action Taken on Motion to Make Measure a Rider to One Limiting Length of Freight Trains.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Senate tabled, 41 to 34, yesterday a motion by Senator Copeland (Dem.), New York, to make the anti-lynching bill a rider to the McCarran bill limiting the length of freight trains to 70 cars. Copeland made his motion following an address in which he attacked the train limit bill.

The anti-lynching bill, which was prepared by Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, and Senator McNary (Dem.), Indiana, had been approved by the Judiciary Committee as a substitute for a bill passed by the House.

Reasons for Tabling. Several Senators, including Van Nuys, said they voted to table Copeland's proposal because they favored both the anti-lynching and train limit bills. They said they feared consideration of the anti-lynching issue in the form of a rider would jeopardize both measures.

However, Connally (Dem.), Texas, said he voted to table the amendment because he was opposed to anti-lynching legislation. Thirty-seven Democrats, two Republicans and two Independents voted to table. Ten Republicans and 24 Democrats voted against tabling.

Under the bill, officials who fail to protect prisoners or who are negligent in prosecuting a lynching would be guilty of a felony. Counties in which lynch victims are abducted would be liable for civil damages to representatives of the injured person.

Senator Bailey (Dem.), North Carolina, told the Senate the South did not approve lynching but believed in the right of states to deal with the problem and therefore opposed a Federal law.

Advocates of anti-lynching legislation said they again would submit the Wagner-Van Nuys bill to the Senate, this time as a rider to the labor standards measure.

Roll Call on Proposal. The vote by which the Senate refused to consider the Wagner-Van Nuys bill follows: To table: Democrats—Adams, Andrews, Bailey, Barkley, Bilbo, Black, Bone, Brown of New Hampshire, Byrd, Byrnes, Caraway, Chavez, Connally, Duffy, Ellender, Harrison, Hatch, Johnson of Colorado, King, Loneragan, McCarran, McGill, McKellar, Minton, Murray, Neely, Overton, Pepper, Pittman, Radcliffe, Russell, Schwelbach, Sheppard, Smith, Thomas of Utah, Van Nuys and Wheeler—37. Republicans—Davis and Frazier—two.

Progressive—La Follette—one. Farmer-Laborite—Lundeen—one. Total, 41. Against tabling: Democrats—Brown of Michigan, Bulkley, Bulow, Copeland, Dietrich, Donahay, Gerry, Gillette, Green, Herring, Hitchcock, Holt, Hughes, Lee, Lewis, Logan, Maione, Pope, Schwartz, Smathers, Thomas of Oklahoma, Truman, Tydings and Walsh—24. Republicans—Austin, Borah, Capper, Hale, Lodge, McNary, Steiwer, Townsend, Vandenberg and White—10. Total, 34.

HOLDING FIRM TAX RISE AGREEMENT REACHED

Conferees Also Fix Tentative Curbs on Personal Companies' Deductions.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Senate-House Tax Committee agreed tentatively today to increase tax rates applied to personal holding companies and restrict tax deductions permitted them.

Chairman Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, said the group had completed its work on the personal holding company phase of its efforts to devise ways of closing tax avoidance loopholes. He declined, however, to disclose what rates or deductions had been approved. He said they still might be altered.

The committee, he said, decided to call Robert Jackson, Assistant Attorney-General, before it tomorrow in open session. Republican members have indicated they wished to question Jackson about his advice to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt that some income from radio broadcasts, paid directly to charity, was not taxable as her income.

Jackson wrote the committee he had so advised the first lady when he was chief counsel of the Internal Revenue Bureau in 1934.

Representative Fish (Rep.), New York, claimed Mrs. Roosevelt took advantage of a tax loophole in connection with the radio income.

Doughton said also the Treasury had reported tax returns of James Roosevelt, the President's son, and of Secretary Morgenthau would be submitted immediately. Fish suggested they be examined to determine whether either of the two had used tax avoidance devices.

Personal holding companies now pay regular corporate taxes and special surtaxes ranging from 8 to 48 per cent. They may deduct from taxable income 20 per cent of adjusted net income less dividends received from other personal holding companies; any reasonable amounts due or earmarked to retire debts incurred before 1934; and, in determining adjusted net income, all losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets.

Collie, Lost at Sea, Swims 7 Miles. PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 27.—A collie swam seven and a half miles in Narragansett Bay and reached shore yesterday morning at the Washington Park Yacht Club 15 hours after it had been lost overboard from its master's boat. The collie sailed Sunday afternoon with George Courtot, its master, and a party of Courtot's friends. They went to the Prudence Island in the middle of the bay and were returning when the dog was missed. The boat at the time was about five and a half miles from the island. The waters were searched without success.

THOUSANDS FIND STANDARD RED CROWN GIVES THEM MORE MILES PER GALLON THAN ANY OTHER GASOLINE

Miss Luella Kerr, pictured here, is one of those thousands. Like so many others in the World's Greatest Road Test last summer, she discovered extra mileage in Standard Red Crown—and was nice enough to say so!

The statement below is an actual excerpt from the Record Book submitted by an owner-driver in "The World's Greatest Road Test of Gasoline Mileage" last summer.

"I found using the same grade gas and oil consistently helps maintain higher mileage—my average increased from around fourteen on 'just any gas' to over seventeen after changing to Standard Red Crown and Iso-Vis."

Luella Kerr
OTTUMWA, IOWA

WILL Standard Red Crown give you more miles per gallon than any other gasoline?

One gratifying fact that came out of the World's Greatest Road Test of Gasoline Mileage last summer was that Standard Red Crown in addition to its long-popular "pep," does give fully as long mileage as any other gasoline, in all makes of cars and under all driving conditions. But thousands said "longer!"

Many drivers, in many types of cars, have found that Standard Red Crown definitely saves them mileage money. You might, too.

Read what others say about Red Crown in the book "How to SAVE AS YOU DRIVE" (free, while they last, at all Standard Oil Dealers). If you're anxious to save all you can on the road, you'll want a copy of this book, and you'll want to try Standard Red Crown yourself.

Death List Increases as Reports Come Slowly From States of Vera Cruz and Puebla.

HEAVY WRECKAGE IN MOUNTAIN TOWN

Shocks in Capital Send Hundreds to Street—Government Buildings Damaged at Jalapa.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

MEXICO, D. F., July 27.—Bodies of 30 persons have been taken from ruins in Vera Cruz and Puebla states where a heavy earthquake was recorded Sunday night. The death list increased hourly as reports seeped last night through damaged communications systems. A special train, carrying doctors and nurses left the city of Orizaba for the town of Maltrata. Half the buildings in the town of 8000 people were destroyed. Sixteen dead and 70 injured were taken from the wreckage.

The epicenter of the earthquake, which began at 9:48 p. m. and lasted for 30 seconds, two towns, was fixed at 114 miles southeast of this city by the National Seismic Observatory. That would place it near Maltrata, 5550 feet above sea level in the mountainous country around the dormant peak of the volcano Orizaba.

Many towns and villages on mountain sides have been unable to report because of broken telephone and telegraph lines. In this city, there was no damage but the shocks sent hundreds running from hotels and movie houses.

Scores of Sunday evening promoters threw themselves flat on the ground when the shock was felt. Tehuacan, Puebla resort center. Reports from Jalapa, capital of the State of Vera Cruz, said the Palace of the State Government, the Hotel Plaza, two motion picture theaters and many other buildings were damaged.

In Esperanza, 53 miles from the city of Puebla, a family of five was reported killed when a house collapsed.

A telegram from Costepec, Vera Cruz, said: "Many houses fell; number of dead unknown." Nogales lost its old parochial church. Cordoba's main street was jagged with wreckage from the Empalme Hotel and the facade of a bank building.

NAZIS, FACING SHORT HARVEST, MIT WHEAT FLOUR TO BREAD

Barred Also as Animal Fodder; Reich Orders Farmers to Turn Over Grain Harvest.

BERLIN, July 27.—Germany prepared for a short grain harvest day with an order forbidding the use of wheat or rye for anything but bread.

None may be used as animal fodder, Walter Dore, the Reich commissioner for agriculture, proclaimed. The decree followed a conflict between provincial governments and Nazi Party and peasant leaders. The Reich, it was explained, faces a grain harvest which may be from 10 to 15 per cent below average.

Each farmer who produces flour must deliver his harvest to the Government market, keeping enough to furnish bread for his family. Sugar beets are expected to replace rye for fodder.

Senate Agrees to House Amendments to Measure for Six Auxiliary Vessels.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Senate action sent to the White House a bill authorizing construction of six naval auxiliary vessels at a maximum cost of $50,000,000. The Senate agreed to House amendments to the bill, which provides for a new seaplane tender, destroyer tender, mine sweeper, submarine tender, fleet tug and oil supply ship.

The chief House amendment specified that not less than 50 per cent of the ships should be built in Government navy yards, and authorized a 6 per cent preference for bids received from Pacific coast builders.

At Masillon the attack on strike headquarters was carried out during a period when the Chief of Police was absent from the city for a few hours, and while the department was acting under the command of a retired army officer who had supervised the commissioning of non-striking Republic employees as special policemen.

Tells of Republic "Pressure." Perhaps the most significant testimony was that given by Masillon's Chief of Police, Stanley M. Switzer, who told of the "pressure" applied to force his assent to the appointment of special policemen.

According to him, the "heat was turned on" from a variety of sources.

Describing a conference at Canton with Carl Meyers, Republic manager in the Canton-Masillon district, Chief Switzer said:

"Meyers wanted to know what the hell was going on over there—letting those hoodlums run the town. He wanted to know why we didn't do like the Chicago police had done. They knew how to handle a situation," he said. He told me if the mills closed down Masillon would be nothing but a junction point, with no need for a Mayor or a Chief of Police or any other city officials."

Meanwhile, the Chief continued, "Masillon business men, fearful that the mill would close and deprive the town of a daily payroll of $4000, had formed a 'Law and Order League,' the admitted objective of which was to break the strike. Surprisingly well financed, the League offered to provide $8000 with which to equip and pay 50 special policemen. Switzer at first declined, saying he was unwilling to detail such men to strike duty."

Situation Under Control. In all of his conferences with Meyers and officers of the League, the Chief argued that the situation was under control, and that the strike had been as peaceful as could reasonably be hoped. Pointing out that no one had been killed, Switzer argued that to commission special policemen for strike duty would be to invite serious violence, especially if the "specials" were strike-breakers.

But the pressure on Switzer was increasing. On July 4, he testified, Gen. William Marlin, commander of the National Guard in that area, came to him with a suggestion that the city should organize a "Home Guard," composed of Republic employees, to maintain order after the troops were withdrawn. At that time, the Chief added, two companies of National Guard troops were quartered inside the Republic mill, although he had advised against such an arrangement.

Two days later, Harry Curley a contractor who had served as a Captain in the army during the World War, appeared and volunteered his services in organizing an enlarged police force. On the

Killing of Massillon Strikers Like Chicago 'Massacre' on Many Points, NLRB Inquiry Shows

Republic Steel Workers Victims in Both—Company Pressure Exerted on Ohio Chief to Emulate Chicago Police.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Although the National Labor Relations Board has not completed its investigation of the fatal "shooting up" of steel strike headquarters in Massillon, O., the night of July 11, evidence already in the record discloses that the Massillon affair and Chicago's Memorial day "massacre"—which occurred nearly six weeks earlier—had important elements in common.

At Chicago the toll was 10 killed and more than 60 wounded—all strikers and strike sympathizers. At Massillon it was two killed and 15 wounded—all strikers and strike sympathizers. One striker gassed at Massillon subsequently died of heart failure.

Both shootings occurred in connection with strikes at the plants of the Republic Steel Corporation, headed by Tom Girdler. In both instances, the killing was done by the police. In both, the overwhelming mass of evidence indicates not only that the attacks on the strikers were unprovoked, but were planned in advance.

More Than Mere Coincidence. However, the two tragedies are related by something more than mere resemblance or coincidence. It was testified here last week that a Republic officer urged the Massillon police to emulate the tactics of their Chicago contemporaries, and that when the regular police resisted this pressure, Republic succeeded in having many of its own employees sworn in as special policemen, who then participated in the killings and subsequent raids on strikers' houses.

In the Senate investigation of the Chicago Memorial day "massacre," it was shown that many of the participating policemen were armed with gas handles supplied from the Republic plant, and that they had received some meals in the plant cafeteria. One witness declared that Police Capt. Mooney, endeavoring to persuade him to give evidence against his fellow strikers, promised that the Republic would transfer him to one of its plants in a distant city "if things get too hot." However, all those participating in the Memorial day "massacre" were regular city policemen.

At Massillon the attack on strike headquarters was carried out during a period when the Chief of Police was absent from the city for a few hours, and while the department was acting under the command of a retired army officer who had supervised the commissioning of non-striking Republic employees as special policemen.

Tells of Republic "Pressure." Perhaps the most significant testimony was that given by Masillon's Chief of Police, Stanley M. Switzer, who told of the "pressure" applied to force his assent to the appointment of special policemen.

According to him, the "heat was turned on" from a variety of sources.

Describing a conference at Canton with Carl Meyers, Republic manager in the Canton-Masillon district, Chief Switzer said:

"Meyers wanted to know what the hell was going on over there—letting those hoodlums run the town. He wanted to know why we didn't do like the Chicago police had done. They knew how to handle a situation," he said. He told me if the mills closed down Masillon would be nothing but a junction point, with no need for a Mayor or a Chief of Police or any other city officials."

Meanwhile, the Chief continued, "Masillon business men, fearful that the mill would close and deprive the town of a daily payroll of $4000, had formed a 'Law and Order League,' the admitted objective of which was to break the strike. Surprisingly well financed, the League offered to provide $8000 with which to equip and pay 50 special policemen. Switzer at first declined, saying he was unwilling to detail such men to strike duty."

Situation Under Control. In all of his conferences with Meyers and officers of the League, the Chief argued that the situation was under control, and that the strike had been as peaceful as could reasonably be hoped. Pointing out that no one had been killed, Switzer argued that to commission special policemen for strike duty would be to invite serious violence, especially if the "specials" were strike-breakers.

But the pressure on Switzer was increasing. On July 4, he testified, Gen. William Marlin, commander of the National Guard in that area, came to him with a suggestion that the city should organize a "Home Guard," composed of Republic employees, to maintain order after the troops were withdrawn. At that time, the Chief added, two companies of National Guard troops were quartered inside the Republic mill, although he had advised against such an arrangement.

Two days later, Harry Curley a contractor who had served as a Captain in the army during the World War, appeared and volunteered his services in organizing an enlarged police force. On the same day two Republic officers showed up with a list of employees whom they wished to be commissioned as special police.

"No Time to Be Neutral." Still later on the same day, Chief Switzer went on, Gen. Marlin requested and "wanted to know why we hadn't shown some signs of life about taking these men on." When Switzer replied that he wanted time in order to select "neutral" men, he said the General retorted:

"This is no time to be neutral." Next day, after another delegation had called on Mayor Henry and demanded "action," Chief Switzer and the Mayor capitulated, and consented to commission the Republic men as special policemen.

"They had been climbing all over me, and they had me pretty well pounded down," the Chief explained. "I knew what would happen, but I said, 'All right, go ahead and appoint the whole damn outfit.' I said I would give them anything they wanted. I could see there would be battle and bloodshed the minute they put guns in those rookies' hands, but I was tired of being pounded and hounded."

Immediately following his capitulation, July 7, some 30 or 40 Republic employees appeared at Police Headquarters to be sworn in. From the testimony of Switzer and other witnesses, it was evident the men had been picked up by Curley. The indemnity company which supplied their bonds had been guaranteed against loss by Republic.

During the days which followed, it appeared from the testimony of the men sworn in as special policemen, that the command of the Police Department tended to pass from Switzer's hands into Curley's, although the latter at no time held any official status. Between 9:30 p. m. on July 11 and 1 a. m. the same night, when Switzer was out of town on a picnic, Curley, a civilian, was in full charge.

What Happened. What happened during that time is described by witnesses, among whom Harry Jones and Walter A. Meyer apparently were in the best position to see. Although both are strikers, they testified they had been for a drive in the country, and stopped at a strike headquarters on their way home "to get a bowl of soup, and see what was going on."

"As I parked my car, and stepped out," Jones said, "I noticed that my headlights were thrown on a string of policemen in the street—15 or 20 of them. As usual, a big bunch of strikers were standing in front of the headquarters. Then one of the policemen hollered:

"Turn those lights off, or we'll shoot them out." I turned them off for a minute. Then, intending to drive away, I got back in the car, and turned the lights on."

Meyer, whose car was parked immediately behind Jones', testified that when the latter turned on his lights, a voice from among the police shouted: "All right, they asked for it—let 'em have it." A hail of police bullets crashed into the crowd of strikers grouped closely around the entrance to their headquarters and gas grenades whizzed through the open windows. More than a dozen men were sprawled on the ground, and scores of others fled through the streets and alleys.

Gas or Bullets. Jones crouched behind his car, but the gas was too much for him, and he chanced the bullets in a successful dash for safety. While his wife and two friends crouched in the bottom of his car, Meyer drove it out of the line of fire. It was hit by many bullets, but none of the occupants was injured. Meyer got into an alley.

"Men were staggering around in the street," he testified. "One of them fell near us. He was moaning and saying: 'I'm dying.' We got him into the car, and drove him to a hospital. He died the next morning."

Similar testimony, although in less detail, was given by men who were inside the building. All declared the shooting began without warning, and was preceded by no act of hostility from the strikers. One said:

"I thought at first they were shooting dummies. Then somebody hollered: 'Look at that—they're shooting bullets.' We could see the men falling."

Doors Battered Down. Events which followed the shooting would seem to have a particular significance. John Angelo and Christ Conzas, occupants of an adjacent rooming house where some of the striking steel workers lived, told how their doors were battered down some two hours after the shooting, and they were ordered by armed men to proceed to the first floor of the house.

There, with about 12 others, all only partly clothed, they were lined up against a wall, and given the following command:

"All of you who belong to the C I O. hold up your hands."

The "officer" who gave this order, and who seemed to be in charge, was identified by Conzas as Bill Henderson, a foreman in the shipping room at the Republic plant. This identification was contested by another witness.

KANSAS RECEIVERSHIP INVESTIGATION BEGINS

Senior Federal Judge Says District Jurist's Handling of Case Was Bad.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Senior Judge Robert E. Lewis of the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals told the House Judiciary Committee today he assigned a Federal Circuit Court of Appeals Judge to take over three receivership cases from District Judge Richard J. Hopkins of Kansas because he thought Hopkins' administration of them was "bad."

The committee, with a sub-committee in charge of the questioning, was hearing testimony to determine whether it should make any recommendation to a rules committee which has before it a resolution of Representative John M. Houston of Newton, Kan., seeking a complete congressional investigation of the handling of the receiverships.

Hearing Only Informal. Judiciary committeemen said the Houston resolution is not before them and that the hearing is only an informal one.

In addition to Lewis, Circuit Judge Orin L. Phillips and District Judge Hopkins were here prepared to make statements on their part in handling the cases. Lewis talked before the committee this morning but did not complete his statement because he was taken away until later in the day.

Discussing details of the Fisher Ranch Corporation receivership case, Lewis testified he had directed the late Circuit Judge George McDermott to take charge when a bitter conflict arose between Hopkins and the late District Judge John Pollock in which Hopkins was attempting to administer a receivership and Pollock was considering the case on a bankruptcy proceeding. The Circuit Court sustained the bankruptcy proceeding before Pollock.

Lewis said he understood Hopkins' administration in the receivership was "bad" and that he had asked McDermott to take the case "because it had gotten into such a controversy."

Corruptness Not Charged. Asked by a committee member if Hopkins' administration was "corrupt," Lewis replied he had never heard of it being "corrupt."

Turning to the Bankers' Mortgage Co. receivership, Lewis said that had been assigned to Judge McDermott because he believed Hopkins had "paid out lots of money" while he had the case in receivership and because of conflict between Pollock and Hopkins, again on the question of who had control, one with a bankruptcy proceeding, the other a receivership case.

Judge Lewis said he had heard that one Wichita resident had purchased $100,000 in bonds of the company and was permitted to turn them in at face value for property in the International Trust Co., a subsidiary.

Information was given him, he said, that some of the officials of the bankers' company purchased outstanding bonds at a reduced figure, then redeemed them at face value. Hopkins issued an order stopping such transactions, but Lewis said he later understood it sprung up again. The Judge told of an order which he said Hopkins had issued authorizing payment of $16,000 in dividends which previously had been authorized by the company.

Redeemed Some Bonds. The company, Lewis said, had outstanding $400,000 face value certificates with an actual retiring value of about $250,000. He said he understood Hopkins had made no appraisal of assets, yet redeemed some of the bonds at face value.

Lewis was discussing the reason he transferred the Federal Reserve Life Insurance Co. receivership to Judge Phillips when the hearing was recessed.

He said George E. Brammer, attorney for the Occidental Insurance Co., which was taking a chief part in salvaging the company, had complained that he could not get Hopkins to act on motions and was "suspicious," Brammer told him, he said, Hopkins had appointed two men in Topeka and sent them to Detroit to appraise property already appraised in Michigan and that "it was rumored" the Topeka men were "padding" the appraisal more than the previous appraisal.

Houston in a statement before the committee said he did not believe that the facts could be brought out in a hearing in Washington and asked that authority be granted by the House for investigation to be conducted in Topeka, Kansas City and Wichita.

RUSSIANS RECORD FLIGHT MADE IN PLANE 5 YEARS OLD

Pilot Gromov Predicts Machine Will Be Built That Can Fly 12,000 Miles Nonstop.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Mikhail Gromov, pilot of the Soviet plane which broke the world's non-stop record in a 6262-mile flight over the North Pole, predicted last night that Soviet airmen would fly twice that distance in a new plane.

The trans-Polar plane was built in 1932, Gromov explained. He expressed confidence that with aeronautical developments since then and experience gained on the Polar flight, a single-engine plane can be produced to fly 12,000 miles.

"In perhaps two years," the flyer added, "it would be possible to establish a safe commercial air line over the North Pole which would be practical for all-year flying."

Gromov, with Andrey Yumashev, co-pilot, and Sergei Danilin, navigator, recounted the flight at the Soviet Embassy after calls on President Roosevelt, Secretaries Hull, Woodring, Koper and other American officials.

Gromov said he favors the trans-Polar route from the Soviet to the United States because it is the shortest and, being mostly over ice and not water, safest.

Establishment of a commercial route over the pole, he said, should be preceded by erection of a radio beam on the Canadian side, and improvement of the beacon on the Russian side.

LONDON, July 27.—Admiral of the Fleet Sir Somerset Arthur Gough-Calthorpe, retired, died today at his home on the Isle of Wight. He was 72 years old.

He entered the royal navy in 1878 and attained the fleet admiralty in 1925. He went on the retired list five years later.

His naval posts were numerous and he also was High Commissioner at Constantinople in 1918 and 1919. He became Second Sea Lord in 1916 and commander-in-chief in the Mediterranean the following year.

$25,000,000 ESTATE CLAIM

Australian Woman Seeks Fortune Left by Lady Houston.

By the Associated Press.

PERTH, West Australia, July 27.—Mrs. Annie Houston of Melbourne advanced a claim today to the estimated $25,000,000 estate left by Lady Robert Houston. Mrs. Houston, an elderly woman in poor circumstances, stated that her late husband, George Muir Houston, was a nephew of Sir Robert Houston who amassed the huge fortune in shipping. She said she had to have sent documents to London to substantiate her claim.

Lady Houston died intestate last December. She had left the estate to Miss Juliana Hoare, who preceded her in death, and attorneys said they would divide the estate among six relatives. Lady Houston won control of the fortune left by her husband in 1926 when she was declared sane by a Jersey court.

DR. HIGH TELLS WHY HE QUIT GOOD NEIGHBOR LEAGUE

Says He Has Had No Contact With Washington Since White House Disavowed "Spokesman."

By the Associated Press.

NOROTON, Conn., July 27.—Dr. Stanley High, former Roosevelt administration adviser, said last night he has resigned as executive director of the Good Neighbor League because his "usefulness in that job is at an end."

"I have been very much out of politics since the blowup in February," he said, referring to a magazine article of his which caused the White House to issue a statement disavowing a "spokesman."

"I have had no contact with Washington since then," he said. Dr. High declared he never saw the "editor's note" published with the article, characterizing him as a mouthpiece of the President "until after it appeared in print."

"I don't pretend to be a Jim Farley, but that article entitled 'Whose Party Is It?' accurately prophesied the split-up in the Democratic party which has developed," said Dr. High. "But I was already through with my work in the Good Neighbor League and I ceased to draw a salary after Jan. 1."

Dr. High said he has written a personality article on President Roosevelt which will appear in another magazine this fall and also in "a book about politics."

ANOTHER EFFORT TO GET CROP CONTROL MEASURE

Farm Bureau Federation to Make Last Appeal to House Committee.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The American Farm Bureau Federation decided yesterday to make a last stand before the House Agriculture Committee tomorrow for enactment of a crop control bill at this session of Congress.

Regional Farm Bureau leaders from all parts of the country responded to a call by President Edward A. O'Neal to help draft an appeal.

The Farm Bureau is supporting a proposal favored by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to combine crop control features of the old A. A. A. with principles of the "ever-normal" granary. The latter is a system of storing crop surpluses in years of large harvests for use in slim yields.

PALESTINE SPY MURDER DEFENDANT CONVICTED

Suspected Arms Smuggler Gets 15-Year Term for Killing Soviet Ex-Commis.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, July 27.—Reuben Schenzvit, once South American agent for the European munitions merchant, Sir Basil Zaharoff, was convicted today of killing Jacob Zwanger, former Soviet Vice-Commis of Harbors, and was sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment. Zwanger was clubbed to death last March 10.

Investigation of the killing disclosed an arms-smuggling ring, a secret radio station and alleged spy activities, intelligence officers of the British Royal Air Force said. Zwanger's widow, at the preliminary hearing, told the presiding British Magistrate, Paget Bourke, that her last sight of her husband was when he departed to visit Schenzvit's office.

Investigators think Zwanger was killed to seal his lips concerning the smuggling of arms into Palestine. Authorities suspected the arms were for the use of the Hagana, secret Jewish Defense Society. In Schenzvit's house, police found a powerful unlicensed radio station and a cleverly concealed microphone-dictograph system. A stained sledge hammer was discovered in an underground chamber, from which a tunnel led to the area where Zwanger's body was found.

CLOSING OF CHURCH RESISTED

Mexicans Stay in Nogales Edifice to Prevent Sealing of Doors.

By the Associated Press.

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, July 27.—Federal officials met peaceful resistance from "kneel down strikers" yesterday when they sought to close the Nogales Catholic Church in conformity with a presidential decree of 1934.

The "kneel downers" clung tenaciously to their posts in the face of warnings from Angel la Garda, Federal property custodian, who, appearing at the church to seal its doors, was met by hundreds of devout worshippers. Some have vowed to remain within the church until forcibly ejected. The church was reopened June 4 on permission from Gov. Roman Yocupicio of Sonora.

River des Peres Parkway, developed in recent years as a long, narrow, curving park between Lindbergh and Gravois avenues, will be opened formally at 7:15 tonight, when Mayor Dickson will throw a switch turning on 250 lights along the drive. Expenditures on the parkway are aggregated $1,316,685 so far. The parkway also extends from Gravois avenue to Weber road, with an undeveloped branch paralleling Morganford road between the Des Peres and Gravois roads and the Des Peres drainage Works channel and the Des Peres drainage Works channel. The completed Gravois-Lindbergh stretch is 1 1/2 miles long.

An automobile parade will start shortly before sunset at Cooper and Shaw avenues and run to the parkway. The parade, or rather stand at the northern end of the parkway, will be set off and lights to attract neighborhood attention. The Mayor will deliver a brief address and there will be music.

The parkway is on the outer bank of the drainage channel, virtually occupying the whole strip between the Gravois and the Lindbergh city limits, where formerly the ground was rough and unsuitable for vehicles. Grading began in 1933. About one-third of the cost of the site, about $350,109, was paid through benefit taxes against the property. The remainder of the expenditures have been met through city bond funds and the WPA and WPA.

Cost of various portions of the improvement was: Viaduct carrying the drive over Watson road, $1,000,000; road pavement, $375,234; landscaping, water system and comfort stations, $268,102; lights, on 127 concrete standards, $23,210. Planting included 116,000 shrubs, 130 trees, 1600 rose bushes and 7500 pounds of grass seed; 7500 yards of blue grass seed also was laid. For preparing the ground, 300,000 cubic yards of earth were excavated and 100,000 cubic yards of fill were placed. The lighting system to be used in service tonight has 65,000 feet of underground cable.

City officials have announced that $100,000 or more will be spent on further developments east of the parkway. The parkway covers an area of 210 acres and is nearly one and one-half miles long. The section between Morganford and Weber roads is known as Carondelet boulevard. Width of the parkway between Morganford and Lindbergh varies from 160 to 600 feet, with an average of about 300 feet. The ground of the northern end is attractive. The only cross streets, besides Watson road, are Gravois and Morganford. The drive and other officials dedicated the parkway last autumn.

IT HAPPENED IN FRANCE
From the Chicago Daily News.
ILLEGAL violence in labor disputes will not be tolerated, says the chief executive. Where? In the United States? Oh, no. In France.

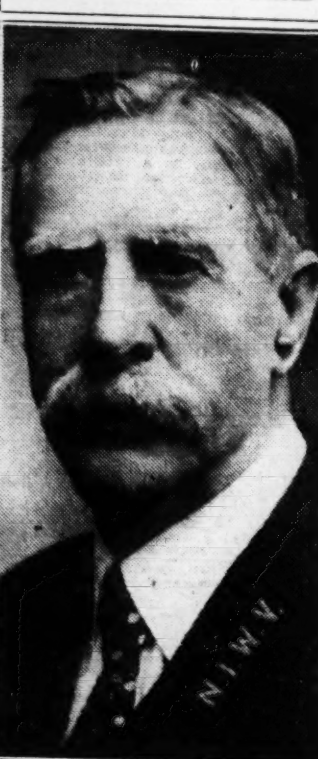

"Everyone must understand that while the Government intends to be completely impartial, it is impossible for the Government to show any weakness toward violation of the law."

Who said that? Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States who took an oath to see that the laws are enforced? No. Camille Chauvignat, Premier of France, whose oath was taken to the French Constitution.

Against whom were the French Premier's words directed? The employers? No, for the employers this time were not accused by anyone of breaking the law. But did a French politician, did a leader of France's famous Radical Socialist party, head of France's new Popular Front Government, did a left party, dare, then, to uphold the idea of enforcing the law even against labor unions which had helped elect that Popular Front? Yes, for the union strikers were breaking the law, and it is the sworn duty of the head of the French Government to see that the laws are enforced impartially.

A queer people, the French—are they not?

75 POINT BREEZE BAPTISTS AID IN BUILDING NEW CHURCH

Donated Services in Carrying Materials and Performing Rough Carpentry.

The new Point Breeze Baptist Church, which is nearing completion at 1601 Telegraph road, Luxembourg, has been constructed principally with free labor furnished by members of the congregation.

Since work began about three months ago, more than 75 members of the church have aided in the construction by carrying lumber, bricks and hods, performing the rough carpentry and lending a hand with the many other manual tasks.

During the day from five to 10 members are engaged in the work, and in the evening, after regular working hours, 20 or more have been laboring until dark. A small number of expert stone masons, bricklayers and carpenters had to be hired.

The Point Breeze congregation of the church was organized in 1890, holding its first meetings in a tent. Later a basement church was built, and it is now being used as the foundation for the new structure. The church membership grew steadily and seven months ago, when the Rev. A. J. Johnson assumed the pastorate, plans were begun to enlarge the church. The new church is 84x40 feet and two stories in height, with the second floor to be used as the chapel.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 27.—Harvard University announced last night the opening of a traffic engineering training school.

"The course is designed primarily for municipal, county, state and Federal engineers, and will provide them with specific engineering attacks on the problems which can be immediately used within their own jurisdictions," he said.

The training school will run concurrently with the New England traffic officers' training school and the course will be of two weeks' duration.

'THE BARTERED BRIDE' A SUCCESS IN PARK

Municipal Theater's Introduction of Smetana Opera Becomes Highlight of Year.

THE BARTERED BRIDE, comic opera in three acts, Music by Friedrich Smetana, libretto by Karel Sabina, English translation by Libinka Partsek. Staged by Zeke Colman and presented by the Municipal Theater Association, in Forest Park, with this cast: Rudolph, a peasant — Phil Portfield; Ludmila, his wife — Ruth Urban; Mashe, their daughter — Susanne Fisher; Mashe, a landowner — John Gurnea; Mashe, his wife — Erika Zaranova; Mashe, a son by a former marriage — Joseph Benoitelli; Mashe, the village blacksmith — Eugene Loewenthal. Principal Comedian, head of a troupe of strolling actors — Macaulay Emeralda, a member of the troupe — Indian, another member of the troupe — Gus Howard. Dancers — Elaine and Barry, Bert Privat, Mary Louise Cropper.

By COLVIN McPHERSON.
MUNICIPAL OPERA, which at times in the past has tendered its patrons grand opera, light opera, musical comedy, musical plays, vaudeville acts, night club spectacles, circus performances, motion pictures and fireworks, last night gave them the English translation of Friedrich Smetana's folk opera, "The Bartered Bride," for its initial appearance in St. Louis.

In the full house of 10,000 persons that were present last night, the Municipal Theater returned to its basic uses, some of whom found the show a "relief from what we've been having," a great majority who enjoyed it and would go to see and hear it again. Others, as usual, chattered during the overture and ran out during the finale.

Undeniably, "The Bartered Bride" is the musical triumph of the summer. This selection from the repertoire of New York's Metropolitan Opera, with four of the Metropolitan's own singers, has been good, unadulterated music to all ears of the preceding shows in the 1937 repertory. The virtual absence of spoken dialogue cuts down the length of the evening unbelievably. And right here tribute should be paid to the Municipal Theater, which has had things unusually well in hand last night. His orchestra, his choruses alike seemed to be making an extra effort to live up to Smetana's respected score.

Attendance during the remainder of the week will show exactly what is what concerning grand opera at the Municipal Theater. For, although "The Bartered Bride" is listed in the musical repertory as "comic opera," it has just enough straight-up opera house music to bring up an issue. Its music, though simple, tuneful and easily comprehended, is unfamiliar. No aria is recognized except by the music-wise of the audience.

By Municipal Opera's standards, the singing is not only good, but good. Most of the vocalists, especially Joseph Benoitelli, tenor, and Susanne Fisher, soprano, as the romantic pair of the opera, Jenik and Marie. Both singers found no difficulty in making themselves heard in the amphitheater. Both, despite an acting style that imposed on Joseph Benoitelli, tenor, and Susanne Fisher, soprano, as the romantic pair of the opera, Jenik and Marie. Both singers found no difficulty in making themselves heard in the amphitheater.

THE favorite of the evening was, of course, the comic character, Vashek, as played and sung by George Rasely. Rasely's artfully stammering characterization of a stuttering half-wit brought a gale of laughter at his first appearance, in Act II, and never lost favor thereafter. Big, glassy-eyed, carrying red umbrella and a fistful of money, Rasely is the perfect moon-calf that Smetana intended him to be.

Almost as great a favorite, at times, was Eugene Loewenthal as the marriage broker, Kezal, a figure resembling the old cartoon image of Prohibition, who hunched both the girl and 300 crowns offered by the marriage broker.

John Gurney, fifth of the vocal big guns of the week, does not appear until Act III, has little to do other than sing "All's Well That Ends Well" for the enraptured Jenik and Marie and so again misses the opportunities that every opera follower knows he would use to advantage.

The English translation of "The Bartered Bride" is sensible, fits the music and the plot development could be understood by a child. Marie's parents make a match for her with the half-wit, Vashek, son of the rich landowner, Mashe, through the marriage broker, Kezal. Jenik, who is already in love with Marie and lucky enough to be Mashe's son, too, in disguise, fights out a trick to get both the girl and 300 crowns offered by the marriage broker.

Song lyrics, all of which could probably be compressed in a paragraph or two, repeat such phrases as "All's Well That Ends Well" or "Revenge is a Dish Best Served Cold."

The production background of the show sets a high mark of its own. Raymond Sovey's timbered Bohemian village for the first and third acts represents his best work of this year, perhaps of his three years. His second act festive hall and his third act village in its original foreign tongue, to "Cavalleria," to "Faust," to "Cavalleria" and "Pagliacci."

OLD AGE TAX CHECK ADDS 250,000 FIRMS

Employers Placed on Treasury's Lists in Campaign Against Delinquents.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 27.—A nationwide campaign to collect delinquent social security taxes, revenue officials said today, has added 250,000 employers to the Treasury's tax lists.

Sixty-four revenue offices have been checking old age tax returns against general "information returns" filed by employers at post-offices last fall. Agents also are going over income tax returns filed by individuals, partnerships and corporations in previous years. Those claiming deductions for salaries and wages paid are being checked against the social security tax lists.

Telephone directories are being examined for leads in finding delinquents, who are subject to one-half of 1 per cent interest a month on unpaid taxes. In cases of fraudulent efforts to dodge security taxes, criminal penalties may be imposed.

Officials reported 1,620,200 employers were paying the old age taxes at the end of June. This was about 250,000 more than the number listed for May.

The campaign against delinquents was started early in June, when the Treasury returned to its basic uses, some of whom found the show a "relief from what we've been having," a great majority who enjoyed it and would go to see and hear it again. Others, as usual, chattered during the overture and ran out during the finale.

For the last fiscal year, $252,161,000 was collected, compared with the budget forecast of $244,600,000. The Treasury expects to receive about $700,000,000 from security levies during the current fiscal period.

PLAYGOERS ORGANIZING TO GET BROADWAY SHOWS

Plan to Underwrite a Guaranteed Attendance for Theatrical Season.

A committee of 100 is being organized to lay the foundation for a group to be known as the Playgoers' Guild, members of which will underwrite a guaranteed attendance for the fall and winter theatrical season.

The American Theater, the only showhouse now used for the so-called "legitimate plays," is dark many weeks of the year, and organizers of the idea maintain that as many as 100,000 seats go unused. The group would bring productions with Broadway casts to St. Louis.

Organization of the committee is being carried on by a group headed by Mayor Dickmann, which includes former Mayor Henry W. Kissel, Frank M. Mayfield, Max Koeningberg, Fred Winsor, John Ring Jr., David R. Calhoun, M. E. Holderness, G. Gordon Hertel, Eugene D. Ruth and William Victor, all representing various municipal and business associations.

In a letter to prospective charter members, it was explained that members of Playgoers would be required to buy two or more seats for each stage show playing in St. Louis this season. When shows are held over for a second week, members will not be required to accept tickets again. Seats in dramatic sections will be reserved for subscribers.

JOHN L. MADDOX, PIONEER IN COMMERCIAL AVIATION, DIES

President of Transcontinental Air Transport Which Began Coast-to-Coast Service.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 27.—John Luther Maddox of New York and Los Angeles, president of the Transcontinental Air Transport and a pioneer in the development of commercial aviation, died at his home here yesterday. He was 49 years old.

He had been ill a few days of a heart ailment. With him he died his second wife, Mrs. Rosena Maddox, and a son, James, 3. Another son, John Jr., 13, was in Los Angeles.

Mr. Maddox began his career in aviation with the establishment of the Maddox Airline between San Francisco and California, Mex. That line and Transcontinental Air Transport—which began coast-to-coast service with train-plane connections at Columbus, O.—were predecessors of the present TWA mid-continent route.

Mr. Maddox was instrumental in establishment of air terminals at Kansas City, Mo., and Glendale, Cal.

Relative of Mrs. Roosevelt Dies.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 27.—Mrs. Julia Addison Roosevelt, wife of George Emlen Roosevelt, who is a second cousin of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, died yesterday in the St. Elizabeth Hospital. She was 48 years old. Her husband is senior partner of the banking firm of Roosevelt & Son.

by Rigmaster Joseph Macaulay adds whimsical nonsense to the last act. These things are essential to the success of the show, especially the circus, since it has disposed of Vashek, and represent no padding by Municipal Opera.

Taken in its entirety, the production of the week greatly justifies its inclusion in this year's repertory. Its happy combination of entertainment, rather than merely its English libretto, seems to be its chief virtue. Perhaps, then, it will open the door, not to less successful comic operas in English, but to works of all time in the park. Present dances are intricate and charming, with a fine gloss led by the soloists. A mock circus led

EXPLOSIVES TO PLUMB ATLANTIC FLOOR MUD

Oceanographic Institution Expedition Seeks Way to Measure Sediment's Depth.

By the Associated Press.
WOODS HOLE, Mass., July 27.—The Ketch Atlantis, floating laboratory of the world-famous Oceanographic Institution, turned today toward one of its strangest quests—a search for fragments of the deep Atlantic's floor.

Only recently returned from a hunt for samples of the ocean's population to see what "apparatus" the creatures occupy, the next assignment for the Atlantis was short voyage for preliminary tests in the use of explosives in deep water.

The scientists are seeking to perfect a technique whereby the methods of seismic geology can be used in the ocean basin, to determine the thickness of mud on their floor. After the preliminary trip, the Atlantis will head next month for a deep sector of the ocean.

The unusual voyages of the Atlantis have included since 1935, the making of the thickness of the sediment on the continental shelf off the eastern coast was successfully measured.

Columbus Iselin, acting director of the Institution, described the aims of the trip, from which the Atlantis had just returned was chiefly biological in character. He said the object of the last trip was to sample "the population of the bottom" and at the same time to study the water for its dissolved chemicals, with the purpose of seeing if we can correlate the distribution of fish and the chemicals at various levels.

"We want to determine whether the living processes of the animals affect the water or whether the water affects the animals. You know, there is very little oxygen at a depth of about 900 meters," he said.

Iselin, tall and broad-shouldered, is overseeing the Institution during the absence in Europe of its director, Dr. Henry B. Bigelow. He talked enthusiastically about his work and that of his associates.

The Atlantis has made 67 cruises since it was established in 1930, and has averaged about 20,000 miles annually. She is 142 feet long and carries a regular crew of 17, with quarters for six scientists.

ONCE PROMINENT ARCHITECT DIES ON RELIEF ROLLS

Identity of Aged Man Disclosed by Nephew; Unsuited Will Disposed of Property.
BLTKE, Cal., July 27.—A man on county relief rolls who died here a month ago was identified yesterday as Neal Austin, graduate of Oxford University and once a prominent architect. He was 87 years old.

Under the name of Samuel Adams he had worked in the field for a dollar a day. When he became ill he was placed on relief. A key-winding gold watch made in Liverpool, England, and inscribed with a British coat of arms was found among his belongings. There was an unsigned will leaving his property to Mary Odum of Durant, Miss.

E. G. Odum, who said he was Austin's nephew and a railway officer, came here to arrange for burial. He said his uncle had disappeared more than 32 years ago. He had designed many buildings in cities in Arkansas, Missouri, Mississippi and Louisiana which still stand.

Miss Ottana Steiner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto G. Steiner, 3134 Longfellow boulevard, will leave soon for a visit in Canada. Afterward she will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Harrington of Metuchen, N. J., formerly of St. Louis.

U. S. STEEL NETS $3.43 A SHARE FOR QUARTER

Largest for 3 Months Since 1929—Clears Up Arrears on Preferred Issue.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 27.—Directors of United States Steel Corp. today cleared up arrears on the senior stock and reported the largest quarterly income since 1929.
They declared $1.25 on the preferred arrears and a regular dividend of $1.75. This cleared the way for action on the common stock at some later date.
Net income available for dividends in the second quarter totaled $36,173,682, compared with $26,661,533 in the first quarter and $12,682,423 in the second quarter of 1936.
Gain in Six Months.
Net income available for dividends in the first six months increased to $64,735,215 from $16,238,727 in the like period a year ago. Shipments of steel products in the second quarter were 2,614,222 tons, or 87.5 per cent of capacity, an increase over the first quarter of 5.9 per cent.
Operations for the quarter as measured by finished product output averaged 88.4 per cent of total capacity.
Net earnings for the second quarter were equal to $3.43 a share on the common stock, compared with $2.55 in the preceding quarter, or $5.98 for the first six months. This was in line approximately with Wall Street expectations.
The corporation fell in arrears on the preferred dividend in the first quarter of 1933 when a payment of 50 cents was ordered instead of the regular quarterly dividend of $1.75.
A rate of 50 cents quarterly was in effect until July, 1936, when the payment was boosted to $1. Arrears accumulated during the period of reduced payments amounted to $18.25 a share, or $65,751,300.

Liquidation Effected.
Liquidation was effected through payments of $2 in October, 1936; $7 in November; $4 in April, 1937; $2 in May and $2 in June, in addition to the regular quarterly payments of $1.75 as they accrued since October, 1936.
The dividends are payable Aug. 30, to stock of record Aug. 2.
In the absence of Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the corporation, who is in Italy on a vacation, Edward R. Stettinius, chairman of the finance committee, presided at the meeting.

"Steel products continued in good demand and showed some further improvement during the second quarter," the corporation announced, adding that "practically all lines participated in this better showing."

Inland Steel Nets $2.02 a Share.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 27.—Inland Steel Co. and subsidiaries reported second quarter net profit of $3,178,333, or $2.02 a share, compared with $2,298,191, or $2.29 a share, the corresponding period of 1936.
First quarter net income was $5,008,774, or $3.34 a share, the largest for any quarter in the company's history.
Directors voted a cash dividend of $1 a share and an extra of 50 cents, payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 13.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 27.—The Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation reported today second quarter total earnings of $4,706,772 and a net income of $2,451,976. Preferred stockholders will receive $1.75 a share on account of arrears, leaving $26.25 a share in arrears. The balance of $1,424,483 will be carried over to surplus.

APPLICATION FOR LISTING ON 'CHANGE WITHDRAWN

Alleghany Corporation Takes Action in Regard to Certificates of Deposits for Alleghany Corp. Bonds.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 27.—The New York Stock Exchange announced today that Alleghany Corporation, holding company of the former Van Sweringen railroad empire has withdrawn its application for listing certificates of deposit for Alleghany Corporation bonds.
An application by Chesapeake Corporation, an affiliate, for listing common shares was also withdrawn.

The Stock Exchange declined to comment on the withdrawal except to say the action was taken by the company themselves.
Alleghany Corporation, now controlled by Robert R. Young, Frank F. Kolbe and Allan Kirby, sought the listings in connection with plans for merging the two companies into a new Chesapeake Corporation.
Announcement of the application last week led to conjecture as to the action the Stock Exchange might take in view of recent criticism by the Senate Railroad Finance Committee of the exchange's admission of the Alleghany Corporation securities to trading privileges in 1929.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

THE thing that makes a community stand out is the few public minded citizens who take pride in their different institutions like parks, schools and churches. Uncle Clab was one of the most public spirited men in the little community where he lived on Lee Creek back home and they didn't have any parks or schools, but he sure was proud of his church. I never will forget the year of the big drought down there. Uncle Clab wrote me not to come because everything was all dried up and the farmers got panicky and held a meetin' in the church to see what they could do. The following week, I went down to visit him and I was surprised to see the creek was swollen out of its bank and the water rose up to the second story of Uncle Clab's house. I got a boat and rowed out to see him and he was sittin' on top of his roof. I said "I thought you said there was a drought." Uncle Clab said, "There was and only last Sunday our parson prayed for rain—that ain't bad for a little church like ours!"

The Right Response

By Eli Culbertson

IN the dark ages of bridge the responding hand has a comparatively simple job. Whenever it was called upon to exp. as a preference between two suits bid by the opener, if the responder had no real preference he merely "went back" to the first bid suit and let it go at that. Since the advent of "reverse bidding," however, with its frequently indefinite implication of suit lengths, the responder cannot discharge his responsibility so casually. It is pretty generally understood among all classes of players that a hand such as ♠A J 8 3 ♥A J 9 8 2 ♦6 ♣K 5 2 should be opened with a bid of one spade, not one heart. This is in line with the principle of preparedness. If we were to bid as we used to and open this hand with one heart, partner might make several responses that would embarrass us at our next opportunity. If he were to respond to the heart with either one no trump or two diamonds we would fear to bid two spades, realizing that if he could not stand the spade bid and were to return us to our first named suit we then would be too high for comfort. Thus, as a preparation for the showing of our groceries, namely, both major suits, we start with one spade so that we can bid two hearts on the next round in safety.

Since we must alter the age old bidding philosophy, which was to show length first, it follows that there must be a commensurate alteration of responses. Let us use the hand quoted above as the basis of an entire deal and attack the problem from the responder's point of view.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♣K 5 2

The bidding:
South West North East
1 spade Pass 2 spades Pass
3 hearts Pass 4 hearts Pass
Pass Pass

It is North's last bid that I wish to bring under examination. His spade raise was given on the premise that his honor holding warranted something better than a mere no trump response. When South, after hearing about the spade support, shows his hearts, North should not woodenly assume that South's heart ad spade suits are of equal length. He should allow for the fact that South started with a shorter, higher ranking suit in order to avoid a "reverse." Thus, instead of returning to spades on the assumption that the North hand is not strong enough to support both suits, North must express that he is equally willing to play at hearts. Of course, over three hearts North might bid three no trump, but, if he does this and South rebids his hearts, North must not go back to the first named suit (spades) just because it was first named.

The advantage of hearts over spades as a final contract is easily seen. South will be "forced" almost from the first lead in diamonds, and were spades to be trump soon would find himself with fewer trumps than his left hand opponent. At hearts he can well afford the forcing if he plays the hand properly.

Ruffing the second diamond, South should lead to the spade king and take the heart finesse. When this loses to the king and a third diamond is returned South should swing over to a line of play that will turn dummy into the long trump hand. This means to ruff the third diamond, overtake the heart jack with Dummy's queen, and ruff the fourth diamond with the heart ace. A club to the ace should be followed by the cashing of the heart seven, which draws East's last trump, and on which declarer should throw a club. A spade lead, with the queen showing up, then produces the fulfilling tricks.

Today's Question.
Question: What is the correct opening lead against a three no trump contract, no suit having been bid by partner, with the following:
♠J 6 ♦Q J 9 6 ♣8 5 ♣AK 7 5 3
Answer: The five of clubs.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Wednesday, July 28.
DESIRE to expand may take the wrong direction; don't yield to any old yen to do things in a big way—keep the goal in view and be sure the next move is toward it, or as-is it. Take financial matters slow and easy today.

When We Need It.
Like all the deeper things of life, such as religion, philosophy and the studies of man's relation to nature in its physical aspects, astrology is most valuable only when the individual is in need of it. Not that there is ever a time when it is not beneficial to know all possible about any kind of truth, but that we make our greatest progress under life's pressures.

Your Year Ahead.
Your year ahead calls for second thought, if this is date of your birth. It may be hard to deliberate when new things appear, but do— it will pay. Past matters may prove profitable. Danger: Nov. 6-Dec. 26; March 13-April 26; and from July 14.

Thursday.
Good for relations between master and man, and between the sexes. (Copyright, 1937.)

OLIVE OIL.
The person with sluggish digestion and inclined towards gall trouble is wise to use olive oil liberally. The oil is a splendid lubricant for the system and is said to prevent the forming of gall stones, at the same time aiding the food through this small passage.

A little vinegar or lemon juice will add to the piquancy of greens. It should not be cooked into the greens, but sprinkled over them just before they are served.

The Length of Dog's Memory

By Albert Payson Terhune

READ a scientific treatise not long ago setting forth solemnly the information that a dog's memory for persons or for places does not extend for a longer period than six months, at most. In brief, that a six-month absence from master or from home is enough to wipe both of them completely from his recollection.

My parents and myself went to Europe, when I was a child. We were gone from this country for more than two years. On our return we went to my father's place in Virginia to get my father's pointer. Shot, which he had left there. The dog went delirious with joy. He recognized us all, the instant he saw us. And, on arriving at Sunnyside, he recognized and rejoiced in every detail of the home he had not seen for nearly 30 months.

I sold a dog to some people who lived 20 miles away from Sunnyside. She was kept by them in a big kennel yard when she was not on the leash. One night, 20 months afterward, she escaped. Straight home she came—over miles of strange country—and straight to the study where I sat writing. She yelped and whined in delight at seeing me again. (Incidentally, next day, I bought her from her owners and let her stay on at Sunnyside till she died of old age.)

These are but two of 50 true incidents I could tell you, to prove the length of your dog's memory. (Copyright, 1937.)

ON BROADWAY

By Walter Winchell

Arthur Murray, famous dancing instructor, takes over Walter Winchell's guest column today. Winchell is on vacation.

ABOUT DANCING.
By ARTHUR MURRAY.
Laws: The Can-Can is taboo in Turkey, because the women don't approve of it. (The Can-Can, eh?)... Marathon dances are outlawed in Massachusetts. (They've been wary ever since the Boston Tea Party.)... In North Dakota, it's against the law to dance the hoochie-koochie. (Gazuntheit!)... Until recently, in the Irish Free State, the law prohibited sitting out between dances. (In North Carolina, it's illegal to name a dance hall after a denominational college.)

People: Dancing is the chief passion of Mustafa Kemal, boss of Turkey, who likes to go to parties and cabarets. At parties, he insists on dancing with almost every woman present. Socrates, who took dancing lessons, ranked it among the most important branches of learning and did a lot of fancy stepping. Mark Anthony was rebuked by Cicero for disgracing the dignity of the consulship by dancing in the Tupper-calls. Marc ran around in the streets naked and armed with a whip. (Making whippers, no doubt.)... Aimee Whitman, dance instructor of Tulsa, Ok., says that people who hold their chairs wrong can't dance. The most popular revue star in France is a 60-year-old woman—Mistinguett. King Louis XIV, of France, was a ballet dancer. Lily Pons is a ballet opera diva to dance in "Coq d'Or." (Previously, the cast just sang, while the acting was done by a ballet.)

Dances: Mrs. Katsayama, Tokio dancer, who celebrated her 100th birthday recently, attributed her long life to a diet of fried eels, which she's been eating three times a day for more than 50 years. Many of the new French railroad trains are equipped with dancing salons. The first dance floor in the world made of metal has just been installed in a London night club, and it's said to be the ideal surface for dancing. 300 dance gigolos on the Riviera were on strike a few months ago until they were promised more dough.

Gag: Lord Sandwich, after taking dancing lessons in Paris, asked his teacher if he could be of help to him when he returned to England. "Yes," snapped the instructor. "Don't tell anyone you taught you how to dance!"

Trivia: Most of the tall chorines come from Southern California, Texas and Ohio. There are thousands of hula dances. (Every family in Hawaii has its own hula.)... In the early days, every dance was supposed to end with a kiss. The famous Capt. Cook made his sailors and marines dance regularly as a health measure. Temple dancers in Bali are at their prime at the age of six and are forced to retire at 12. (Shirley Temple?—A has-been!)

Strange Customs: Natives of Mount Hagen, New Guinea, dance with their noses locked together and quit only when everybody drops to the ground from exhaustion. Hula dances have strict rules of conduct and diet in learning sacred chants. Among the Willyaroo in Australia, when a young man gets too familiar with the women of the tribe, the old men tie him up, open their veins and pour their blood on the guy, while the females dance around him. The Jwarans in South America celebrate a successful head-hunting raid by giving a dance, at which each warrior tells forward and makes a short speech praising himself. (Born columnists!) The Kayans of Sarawak have a dance to help the stock along. When

Children Who Prolong Their "Good Nights"

They'll Resort to Various Ruses to Keep From Going to Sleep.

By Angelo Patri

"OFF to bed now, darling," I want to kiss daddy good night.

"Why did you kiss daddy, you remember?" "Kiss him again." So daddy is given a bear hug, a long kiss, then the performance is repeated. Again it is repeated and daddy, almost smothered, says, "Now that's all. Go to bed now."

That sounds final, so the child allows mother to carry him off. She escorts him to the bathroom, tucks him in bed, hears his prayers, kisses him good night, turns out the light and starts downstairs. She gets halfway down when she hears, "Mummy, dear. I want to kiss you good night."

"The darling thing," says mother softly, turns back, lights the room again, gets a bear's hug and a long kiss, and then another and then another until she protests, "That's enough now, dear. It is getting late. Lie down and go to sleep." Again the light is turned off, the door closed and the stairs descended, this time to the foot.

"Mummy, dear. I want a drink." "But I gave you a drink." "I know, but I'm thirsty."

"Poor lamb. Firsty. Well, I'll just have to go back and give him a drink."

He gets a drink; chokes and gulps; sighs; hands back the glass and says sweetly, "Thank you, mummy dear." Who could resist the angel child? Mother submits to more hugs, more long kisses. Once more she retreats, this time saying, "Now don't call again, dear. Go right to sleep."

This time mother gets as far as the chair in the living room when the plaintive voice floats down the stairway. "Mummy, dear, I'm hungry. Please bring me a cracker."

Mother rises wearily and father leaps out of his chair. "You sit down, Mary. No, you sit down. Can't you see, he is riding you?" "I can't be hungry. It's just another stall. See here, young man, you turn over and go to sleep and not another word out of you. Understand?"

"I'm hungry, daddy." "Turn over and go to sleep or I'll come up and turn you over smartly. Enough is enough. You say good night once and for all, and that ends it."

"Good night, daddy dear." "John, how can you be so gruff with him, he is only two and a half."

"Exactly. So what will he be like when he is four and a half? After this, he gets one good night and no more. I'm not going to have him run you off your feet. And I'm not going to have a spoiled kid, either. Here's your book."

a member of the Bagesu of Uganda has twins, the tribe dances four days and four nights without resting.

History: Dance comes from a German word meaning "to stretch." The Blue Danube Waltz was originally a flop until a French editor started to plug it in his paper. In Greece, every youth had to learn dancing as part of his military education. At parties in Egypt, a mummy was carried around during the dancing to remind the guests that they'd better make the best of present joys. The first dancing in man's history was done during the stone age. In Spain, the first German waltz tune, "Ach! du lieber Augustin," was danced in France before Germany. King Charles VI, of France, attended a masquerade ball given by the Duchesse de Berri, disguised as a savage, wearing a costume of tow held together by pitch. The Duke of Orleans coming close to examine the King's costume, touched it with a torch and set it on fire. The King was saved but became insane.

"Good Old Days" Item: In Rome, under Caligula, when anyone in the theater interrupted an actor or a dancer's performance by making the slightest noise, the Emperor ordered him to be "dragged from his seat while he thrashed him with his own hands."

Strange Customs: Natives of Mount Hagen, New Guinea, dance with their noses locked together and quit only when everybody drops to the ground from exhaustion. Hula dances have strict rules of conduct and diet in learning sacred chants. Among the Willyaroo in Australia, when a young man gets too familiar with the women of the tribe, the old men tie him up, open their veins and pour their blood on the guy, while the females dance around him. The Jwarans in South America celebrate a successful head-hunting raid by giving a dance, at which each warrior tells forward and makes a short speech praising himself. (Born columnists!) The Kayans of Sarawak have a dance to help the stock along. When

Wall Paper

By Elizabeth Boykin

WE like to remember a farm we visited when we were a child where the repapering of the rooms was just as much a part of the yearly housecleaning as beating rugs and washing the feather beds. That housewife liked a "real pretty paper" which she selected from a mail order catalogue, after consulting the boys as to whether this one or that one would be too hard to "match up." To be sure, in damp weather you always got a slightly sour smell from the home-made flour paste that was used to put up the paper, but the ever-changing cheerfulness of the rooms compensated for that.

We can think of nothing we'd like better than to be able to repaper as often as that farm-wife of our childhood.

Since we don't have any excuse to do over a perfectly good room every time we're in a wall papering mood, we like to think up other ways to make use of the stunning wall papers that are now on the market. As a matter of fact wall paper was originated as a lining for boxes, cabinets and drawers and also as binding and lining for books. Even today it's great fun lining drawers and cupboards and cabinets with amusing wall papers, and hat boxes covered in wall paper to match your bedroom are just as pretty as anything.

If you haven't a bedstead that suits you, here is a wall paper remedy. Get plywood and have the man of the family fix a headboard attached to a frame for the springs. A footboard can be added, too, if desired, though that's not necessary. Paper this headboard with the paper of your choice, make a spread that picks up an important color and you'll have something special. Maybe you'll dig up an old wooden bedstead that can be wall papered to advantage. Paint any moldings on the edges where you can't paper.

Wall paper borders are interesting to use for framing pictures. They can serve in place of either mat or frame, or you can paste a print directly on the wall and then use the wall paper border around it, also right on the wall. Repeat the same border around moldings and openings of room. Other places for wall paper borders are the frames of doors or windows. In using wall paper border, apply the paste to the border before you trim it and you'll find it less troublesome to handle in longer lengths. (Copyright, 1937.)

Double Wedding Of a Sister And Brother

Correct Wording of Invitations to This Ceremony and Reception.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: MY FIANCEE's sister is also engaged and as her brother and I expected to be married on the same day, we have decided to have a double wedding while their garden is still lovely. My own plans were to be married in church, my fiancée to have a reception only for her immediate families. This was really the double wedding proper that I wanted and is it proper that I have my wedding at their home?

Answer: If you and his parents and your parents all like the idea of a double wedding, there is no objection to this arrangement. The wording of the invitations includes your parents' as well as his parents' names, for example, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and Mr. and Mrs. James Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Brown's daughter, Martha Anne, to Mr. Henry Simms Green and Mr. and Mrs. Smith's daughter, Mary.

to Mr. John Brown Jr. Saturday, the fifth of September at four o'clock St. Paul's Church and afterwards at the reception at Green Gates Maple Road.

Or in place of the last three lines, a reception card is enclosed, reading:

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown and Mr. and Mrs. James Smith request the pleasure of your company Saturday the fifth of September at half after four o'clock at Green Gates Maple Road.

A double invitation such as this is the same as the invitations to bridge parties sent out sometimes by as many as four or five houses to play in the house of one of them. The actual share parents pay would be by agreement between your mother and Mrs. Brown. The garden background and the flowers about the house would be contributed equally by the Browns. Possibly your share of the invitations would be half the cost unless your parents list numbers only a few dollars and the Browns several hundred. In this case your mother would pay her proportionate share. At all events it would be best to discuss all this frankly beforehand, also if their idea of a wedding is a very elaborate one it would be better to have a simple one alone.

Thank you for this offer, which undoubtedly will be a boon to some many lovers who are shut off from it in other ways. We will have requests, of course, and will be glad to send them to you. And I must say to those writing, that the best of references, sent in the first letter, will be required.

My dear Mrs. Carr: PLEASE print in your column address of George Murphy, the movie actor.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I wish to play softball, we have a good team now and are in need of some players with experience and over 16 years of age. We are a league team.

MARY FERNANDEZ, 6601 Pacific avenue.

Dear Mrs. Carr: I read your column and enjoy it very much. Will you please help us solve one of our problems? We live in a small town and the boys are not very progressive. We (the girls) plan and give all the picnics, parties, etc. They are always suggesting that we get the get-togethers; but they still go out of town for most of their dates. We want to have fun, but should we keep on entertaining them? TWO WORRIED KENTUCKIANS.

I believe you are quite too, too, amiable. In fact, since they have no qualms about accepting your graciousness and hospitality, it seems to me, you girls might suggest that you are awfully tired and how planning—have completely run out of ideas. Won't they please suggest some place to go and somewhere to do? Then go! But take no picnic lunches and say that you will be ready at a certain time, watch for them and start as soon as they arrive.

My Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM a popular song collector. Does that seem strange? Nevertheless I am interested in the songs of the last two decades and maybe the one before that. Not the songs that we hear year in and year out but the ones that were dear to us for a brief time and are heard no more. If anyone has the choruses to such songs, not necessarily the music, I would appreciate it very much if they would send them to you. I would be only too glad to receive all they can offer. Any song that was sung at frat dances, weiner roasts or riding down lover's lane are the songs that I want.

If you will write me, Mrs. Carr, in care of the enclosed address and let me know the amount of postage due anyone who may reply to my request I will be only too glad to pay it. SINGING FOOL.

If you would like to have a personal letter from me in regard to offers, send me self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr: I AM 13 years old and have a problem which may seem very trivial to you. First, I will say that I'm not very popular with girls and boys simply do not pay attention to me. But I do have one girl friend who is very nice and who writes me while she is on vacation out of town.

Now a very terrible thing has happened in my family, which has disillusioned my parents to the extent that they suspect everything I do. Before this they trusted me, but now think that I, a girl of 13, who is very unpopular, has "affairs." First of all, they open my letters from this one friend and even advertisements. Now I may seem "babyish," but I like to open letters. I do this, they get suspicious. They do not want me to go out alone, even in the daytime. Will you please tell me what I can do if anything? THANK YOU.

"The very terrible thing," which you fail to reveal, may account, and justly so, for all this unusual supervision. Without knowing the cause, I am afraid you offer a solution or remedy. But surely the best thing you can do is "stay put" for some time and convince them that you may be trusted.

Dear Martha Carr: I ENJOY your fine and considerate advice and am choosing you as the medium to give away my piano which I am hoping someone may enjoy. They will have to call for it and, of course, I would want them to be worthy. Some family may have a youngster who is musically inclined who could not afford to buy one, but could pay for the hauling. I am an ardent fan of yours and would appreciate your help in this. MRS. F. H.

Thank you for this offer, which undoubtedly will be a boon to some many lovers who are shut off from it in other ways. We will have requests, of course, and will be glad to send them to you. And I must say to those writing, that the best of references, sent in the first letter, will be required.

Dear Mrs. Post: MY FIANCEE'S sister is also engaged and as her brother and I expected to be married early in fall anyway, she has suggested that we have a double wedding while their garden is still lovely. My own plans were to be married in church, my parents sending engraved invitations, but to have a reception only for immediate families. This was really all they could afford. How would the double wedding invitations be worded and is it proper that I have my wedding at their house?

Answer: If you and his parents and your parents all like the idea of a double wedding, there is no impropriety in this arrangement if the wording of the invitations includes your parents' as well as his parents' names, for example:

Reason Some Persons Act Like Infants

Emotional Immaturity Is the Cause, Columnist Declares.

By Elsie Robinson

(Copyright, 1937.)

WHY'D you tell that silly fib this morning? And fly into that childish tantrum last night? For exactly the same reason that transformed Dillinger into a were-wolf and made Nero fiddle while Rome burned: Emotional immaturity.

Strange mixtures, we humans. You can never tell what's lurking beneath our transformations and tempers. Outwardly we may seem sound and grown up . . . even outstandingly brilliant. Yet at any moment we may break out in some amazing infantile or outlaw act.

Why? Because our development isn't balanced. Mentally we're mature; emotionally we're children or savages.

The trouble starts in our ignorance of our own nature. Not one person out of a thousand realizes that human nature has different departments. Thoughts and feelings—we lump them together. But they are not together. Often they are dark worlds apart. You may be 30 in actual years. You may think as a person of 30 should think, but do you feel as a person of 30 should feel?

Are you cool and collected under strain? Can you take things in your stride? Or do you magnify trifles . . . take everything personally . . . go into tantrums of anger or self-pity if circumstances don't please you?

David Seabury, the great psychologist, once said: "The average man is twice as developed mentally as emotionally. . . here is a key to human suffering, the origin of selfishness, crime, gossip, war."

TRACE any silly or vicious act to its source and you will find that this statement is true. Invariably you'll discover infantile emotions running amuck. Show-offs, smarties, bullies, conceited publicity-seekers—they are all expressing their own emotional immaturity.

Loeb and Leopold—those murderous young monsters—were unusually bright mentally. They had been splendidly educated—mentally. But emotionally they were stunted cripples. Spectators at their dreadful trial thought their callousness was a pose. It was not. They were entirely sincere. It was as impossible for them to feel normal horror, pity, tenderness or remorse as for a baby, an idiot or a savage.

This is all the more tragic because it is preventable. We are not born with "infantile fixations." We acquire them—or have them thrust upon us—usually at a very early age. Generally a doting or thoughtless mother is responsible.

Ego is as well developed at eight months as at 80 years. The youngster receives too much attention—or too little. Weighing in he proceeds to seek compensation or revenge. Instead of developing normally, the bruised spirit becomes "fixed" at an infantile period . . . the baby grouch becomes a life-long obsession.

You have seen it happening. Famous and talented men of letters still boasting childishly, to offset humiliations suffered long since in some tenement alley. Neurotic women dominating a whole family with tyrannical demands, as compensation for some fancied slight or neglect. Emotional infants or cripples—all of them.

And how about yourself—or myself? We're "of age" on all the registration blanks. But when somebody grabs the newspaper before we've read it, or borrows our best salad dish and breaks it . . . how old are we then?

CLIMBING TAUM SAUK MOUNTAIN

Correct Spelling and Origin of Name Remains in Doubt, But No One Disputes Its Haunting and Rugged Beauty—Highest Point in Missouri, It Is Remindful of the Rockies in Miniature.

By RICHARD G. BAUMHOFF

MINA-SAUK OR EVANGELINE FALLS TUMBLES DOWN NEARLY 300 FEET OVER A GRANITE CLIFF LIKE THOSE OF THE ROCKY MOUNTAINS, ON THE WESTERN SLOPE OF TAUM SAUK.

THERE is a lively current debate over the spelling and origin of its name and some difference of opinion over the desirability of a motor road to its summit, but there can be no dispute about its haunting rugged beauty.

Since "it" must be identified, this article will choose the form Taum Sauk Mountain, which seems to have some local acceptance, and will leave for historians, determination of the name's presumably Indian origin.

Taum Sauk, situated at the highest point in Missouri, is the highest point in the State, according to the Missouri Bureau of Geology & Mines and the United States Geological Survey, preparing a new topographic map of the State, recently determined the altitude of Taum Sauk as 1771.7 feet, or about 20 feet higher than previously shown. This elevation is part of the St. Francois range of the Ozark Mountains.

The controversy over the motor road arose following publication of the new height in the Post-Dispatch last May, with which was coupled the statement: "It has often been suggested that the State Highway Department build a road up to the summit, to make it accessible to tourists, but the ruggedness of the country makes this a difficult task." Then the letter writers in the People's Column and the editorial writers got busy. It would be a shame, they said, to spoil this natural beauty spot with a highway. And they presented arguments as to why the name should be Taum, Tom, Tain, Ton or Tam; Sauk, Sauk or Sauk.

With so much being said about so prominent a physical feature of Missouri and so little known about it on the part of most Missourians, I set out to climb this big hill, accompanied by Doc E. of St. Louis, D. Edgar Fletcher, Ironton banker and business man; Fred Lentz, the State surveyor who ascertained the new altitude, and Arch M., Ironton taxi driver and guide.

From Ironton there are two accepted ways to Taum Sauk. One may take a country road west towards the settlement of Munger and then work up the north side of the divide, but this is the least attractive of the routes thought said to be the easiest.

The better way is to drive south another 10 miles on No. 21 over Tip Top Mountain and through the Royal Gorge—both well-known scenic points for Ozark wanderers—to Hogan, a station on the Missouri Pacific Railroad. There, the way leads west by motor for about six miles on a rocky lane, which becomes increasingly rough with every bend and rise. At first this is a public road, then it traverses private land. It reaches several small farms, on three of which D. Edgar Fletcher, Ironton banker and business man, has a cow and a few chickens. Save these and a few primitive cabins, there are no habitations.

Taum Sauk's peak is just two miles east of the Reynolds County line and, as the bee goes, about seven miles south of Ironton. It might be a thousand miles from civilization but for the faint reverberation of locomotive whistles through the hills.

Before going farther, it must be recorded that 10 cents worth of flowers of sulphur made our faint bearable. Sprinkled liberally about legs, waist and shoulders, it effectively kept off the chiggers, those infinitesimal, brick-red pests of the Missouri woods. They could be seen crawling on boot leather, but they kept off the skin.

The jolly Arch stopped his taxi when the rocks and stumps became a bit too tough for the springs. We set out on a four-mile hike, up hill and down dale, to the Devil's Toll Gate, Evangeline or Mina-Sauk Falls and the crest of Taum Sauk. Surveyor Lentz swung a sharp bolo knife once in a while where the undergrowth was a bit thick.

Luxuriant in foliage, the second-growth forest was mostly white oak and black oak, with some hickory and gum and occasional cedars.

Banker Fletcher, long accustomed to hunting in this fastness, who thinks it would make a fine State park, recounts the game to be found: "There are still some deer and turkeys; many wolves; foxes, wildcats and coons." Of course, there are some copperheads and rattlers in this country. The other day we killed a rattlesnake with 16 rattles and a button; he was after a rabbit.

But the day of our expedition the only reptile sighted was one little garter snake stirred up by "Doc."

Down the valley of Little Taum Sauk Creek an old logging or tie road led to the Devil's Toll Gate. This is a huge granite boulder, about 25 feet high, split into two chunks, between which the trail passes. How it got there in ages past is a matter for the geologists to explain. On it the surveyors have marked an altitude record: 1079.7 feet. Below it the stream ripples over a rocky bed, gathering momentum to reach the Black River.

Now there was a climb of nearly 700 feet for the hikers, encompassed within a distance of about two miles. Part way there ran an old tie road, next, the deep bed of a dry wash, where past rains have carved the canyon. Beyond it was a matter of pushing through the brush, sometimes shoulder high, except where a cowpath or rocky slope intervened. The woods grew thicker.

We reached the falls—a real surprise to city men. Some one in late years has given them the name Evangeline, though the old Indian title of Mina-Sauk also persists, explained by a gruesome legend, an ingenious variant of the Lover's Leap theme.

In a series of cascades, the cool, crystal-clear water tumbles down a precipitous granite face for 200 to 300 feet, from the south slope of Taum Sauk to the canyon on the west. It springs from marshy high ground and runs to Little Taum Sauk Creek. A thin trickle now, the falls in the wet season are broad and undoubtedly lovely. Even last year's record drought failed to dry them altogether, it is said. They have worn deep grooves in the blackened rock. To an amazing degree the falls are a small-scale reproduction of gems of the Rocky Mountains.

Gnarled cedars crown the rock. In a crevice on a sheer granite face we found a bird's nest of damp moss containing four small blue-speckled eggs, but no mother bird. Overhead lazy clouds floated in a fairy blue sky. The distant hills were cloaked in the rich haze of the Ozarks.

From the summit of the falls there was a gorgeous view. The on the volcanic action which had forced the stone to this ridge.

NO picnickers' refuse marred the pristine scene. Instead there were old cowpaths, the remains of man-made ponds for cattle and traces of another old tie road, which used to wind from the northeast for the carts of railroad tie-cutters. Taum Sauk is not in one of the new national forests, but lies midway in a narrow strip between St. Francois and Clark Forests.

Regretfully, as a Rover Boys book would say, our hiking party left the summit and set out on the long, uneventful walk back to the car. We halted on Tip Top, returning to Ironton, and read the State highway sign, which related that Tip Top was a spur of "Hogan Mountain," 1320 feet high. But Banker Fletcher said he knew of no Hogan Mountain. Inspection of the terrain and of the work sheet of the topographical survey showed Tip Top to be in reality a spur of Taum Sauk, three and a quarter miles east of the peak of Taum Sauk. The map was closely lined with contours, but the eye easily found Taum Sauk because of a big oval indicating the plateau.

Mountains of the St. Francois range, in Iron, Madison and adjoining counties are among the oldest in the world, much older than the Rockies. They are of volcanic origin. Scientists are of the opinion that once in geologic time they were thousands of feet higher than they are today.

As to the suggestion of a motor road up Taum Sauk, the Post-Dispatch recently said editorially: "The rugged natural beauty of Missouri's greatest elevation must not be ruined by a signboard and hot-dog-stand highway."

As to the suggestion of a motor road up Taum Sauk, the Post-Dispatch recently said editorially: "The rugged natural beauty of Missouri's greatest elevation must not be ruined by a signboard and hot-dog-stand highway."

A public official of Iron County was asked, "Who owns the land of Taum Sauk?" He inquired of another official and made this reply, "He says Taum Sauk Mountain's in Reynolds County."

lay of the land carried out the idea of the Rockies in miniature. A typical saddle about 1500 feet high connected Taum Sauk with its west neighbor, Wildcat Mountain. No. 3 peak of Missouri at 1745 feet. Between the two ancient elevations lay a deep canyon, whose head was at the saddle and whose foot stretched to the Devil's Toll Gate below. Through the canyon ran the creek. Green woods enveloped the rocky slopes. One involuntarily looked for timberline. From the peak of Taum Sauk to the peak of Wildcat it was just one mile, the surveyor pointed out, giving some idea of the size of the canyon.

The ridge of Wildcat runs north towards Ironton, while that of Taum Sauk goes east to Tip Top. Climbing on above the falls, we turned to see a vista of six great hills forming a quarter of the horizon from south to west. They were patched in sunlight and shadow as the clouds drifted over. The hikers pushed on and soon beheld a new ridge, purplish in the haze, somewhere around the northern border of Wayne County, between Des Arc and Ellington.

Turning towards the north, we beheld still another dim ridge, probably the one near Bellevue along State Highway No. 32, and possibly just including Buford Mountain, whose 1760 feet it set second place in Missouri's roof.

Granite outcroppings on Taum Sauk's upper reaches were another sight reminiscent of the Rockies. In contrast was the gentle chirping of a pair of wild canaries, whose frail yellow forms flashed among the bushes.

The higher we climbed, it seemed, the thicker the undergrowth of young oak became. What gratitude then was heaped upon that sulphur! And how the canterers were drained of water!

Arch, who had taken the extra chigger precaution of soaking his trouser legs in kerosene, never let his spirits lag; he had guided many persons through these thickets. He would pause in a clearing and imitate the call of the wild turkey, the whistle of the bobwhite. Quail would answer hopefully, but no turkeys.

The "peak" was an anti-climax. It proved to be a plateau, about a mile long from west to east, nearly half as broad, and almost level, covered with a pleasant grove of trees. Although not thick, the grove presented any real view of the surrounding country.

Lentz led the way to the brass tablet he had placed in a granite slab, denoting a bench mark at 1762.2 feet, and then to a granite boulder nearby—the top of the State, as shown by a white symbol daubed on its upper surface and the figures, 1771.7. He remarked

Accident Preventer

Since serious accidents often occur if the floor at the bottom of a flight of stairs is highly polished, it is a good plan to keep a small rug there. The rug may be anchored by tacking or by the use of a cork mat.

When making canapes, it is advisable to toast the small bits of bread first and then spread with butter to give flavor as well as to prevent the topping from soaking into the bread. Often canapes can be spread just before serving. Sometimes they are spread in advance, then popped into a moderate oven for a minute to freshen and brown.

New Ornament Worn on Hand By Film Star

Marlene Dietrich Sports Combination Bracelet and Ring Aboard Ship.

By Alice Hughes

(Copyright, 1937.)

WE reached the white-hot climax of our sailing season on the docks the other day, when the mighty Normandie shoved off with a truly astonishing human cargo aboard. What a shipload. Not only did she carry diplomats of all nations, department store tycoons and stylists, and even three of the Soviet flyers, but a collection of screen and radio people as colorful as to practically drive the newspaper men out of their wits. Comic Jack Benny and his Mary Livingston, ditto Jack Pearl and his wife, Peggy Hopkins Joyce and orchids, and last but not far from least, Marlene Dietrich and her husband, Hans Siegfried and daughter Maria, who is now as tall as her mother and very pretty, too.

Dietrich, of course, outdrew everybody else, and was very nice to the camera men, even though she had scurried off the train at Harmon, N. Y., 40 miles from the Grand Central Terminal, in order to duck the mob at the depot.

The toothsome Teuton looked stunning in a tan tailored suit, topped by a sage green felt hat and a matching scarf. But what caught the puzzled eyes of the reporters was a new hand ornament which they described as a combination gold bracelet and ring. What they didn't catch about this unusual gadget is its intention, which was told me by its designer, John Fredricks. The back of the hand, says this millinery maven, is the proudest part of a girl's paw—yet it goes unadorned. So—he created this flat gold design to lie against the back of the hand, and it is attached about one finger and at the wrist. And what more admired hand than Marlene Dietrich's to try out this silly gadget?

Every crowd-attracting event here requires the presence and services of a nodder and head-shaker. I remembered this as I entered the magnificent temple Emanuel-El on Fifth Avenue for the funeral of the late George Gershwin. On duty at the door, as nodder or obduty, was one of our girls who knows more musical people probably than anyone else in town. She is Henrietta Malkiel, talent agent, who handles the business affairs of many of the leading lights. A nod from Henrietta sent the arrival to the front pews downstairs, while a tiny head was dispatched them to seats in the balcony. Since she and I were schoolmates, I managed to achieve a nod. Incidentally the ceremonies were brief, tasteful and beautiful.

Our society chatterers have been gabbing a bit since the Roosevelt-du Pont wedding, about the size of the wedding cake at the happy event. Now one of them has quieted all this by saying impressively that the cake was a mere muffin compared with the one baked some years ago for the marriage of Estelle Manville, the roofing heiress, and Count Folke Bernadotte, nephew of Sweden's King. That, he says, was the world's champion wedding cake. So take that, you du Ponts!

That ambitious Cleveland boy, Ted Peckham, who has achieved international publicity with his Esquire Service here for lonely women who want an evening out, Ted now proposes to furnish male escort for a lone lady who wants to shop, the idea being that he can tell her, like a masculine eye, whether or not she looks lovely in the hat she fancies, or in the frock she proposes to buy. There will also be a staff of smart college girls to act as shopping advisors. No stopping this Peckham boy!

APPLES GROWING DIRECTLY OUT OF THE TREE TRUNK

Owled by JACK YONKERS, Dubuque, Iowa.

Living in an era when traveling, even from continent to continent, has become only a jaunt, it sounds unbelievable that Uncle Frank Richardson, 76 years old, has lived his entire life within the bounds of the little county in which he was born, and it is also unbelievable that "Uncle Frank" Richardson has never owned a Sunday suit of clothes, a dress shirt, a necktie, a pair of dress shoes or socks. He has been content with work shirts, work shoes, and overalls all of his life. He has missed a lot of other things in this modern life, too—he has never gone to church, never ridden in a passenger train, never danced a step, never driven a car, and has only been to a movie once in his life. Both "Uncle Frank" and his wife say that health, travel and knowledge only serve to increase the desires of a person, making life more complicated and difficult.

Stephen Forgets Sandra During the Bermuda Cruise and Falls in Love With Julia Markham.

CHAPTER THIRTEEN.

NO one was more reluctant to see the Bermuda House party come to an end than Stephen Eddy. Leaving New York, he had thought only of the effect of his absence on Sandra Brooke, but before Jack Cramer's graceful Fenimore dropped anchor off the tranquil little island where they were to spend eight glorious weeks, he had momentarily tucked Sandra away in the back of his mind and was thinking almost exclusively of Julia Markham.

Quiet, serene and cultured, Julia was just about all you could want in a girl. She talked very little with her lips, a great deal with her eyes and her shoulders and her slim, white hands. She was pretty and she had a really good contralto voice as Stephen discovered the second night out when at Emily Stewart's suggestion she sat down at the piano and sang.

It was still cold that second night out from the Middletown Yacht club—it was the third week of January. But with Julia's little song tingling in his ears, Stephen was suddenly eager to get Julia away from the noisy crowd. At the first opportunity he proposed a turn on deck. Julia went for her coat and for half an hour they stood on the dark fore-deck and talked of New York and Kansas City and Emily Stewart, whom Julia had come East to visit. They did not talk of themselves but that half hour together served its purpose. Stephen had found Julia altogether charming, intelligent and subtly responsive.

Two weeks later they lay under an umbrella on the beach and Julia suddenly stopped humming to ask, "Would it surprise you to know you're the first man who ever kissed me, Stephen?"

Stephen was lying on his back. He twisted his head, looked up at her pensively, and said at last, "Nothing would surprise me about you, Julia."

"Just how should I interpret that?" He sat up, reached over and brushed the sand from her slim brown legs. His eyes came up to hers, then: "One moment I feel I've known you always; then you move or speak or simply look at me and I realize I don't know you at all. You're the most fascinating girl I've ever known, Julia. I've been hearing rumors."

He knew then Emily had told her about Sandra. He said, "The rules of vacation romances are pretty generally recognized, Julia—love and be loved, and when the curtain drops on the last kiss, forget it." Her head moved slightly. "All right, darling. We won't mention her again." Nor did they. In fact neither of them thought about Sandra Brooke again until the Fenimore was off the North Carolina coast, headed north. They were sitting in facing deck with himself about Sandra. But wherever his thinking led him he owed it to this girl to tell her his mind. "You'll like that, won't you?" "Sure, I will. How about you?" She frowned at the newspaper lying on her desk. "If Ronny's coming back to New York makes you any happier," she told him, "I'll like it, too. And before he could purr any further: 'How's Chet and the job?'"

"Great, all around," said David. "But I'm not at the office now. I'm home. The place is a regular morgue since you ran out on us." She did not hear that last. She said, "Is Enid there, David?" "Yes, she's lying down. Wants say hello."

"Please—and don't listen in." "What do you take me for—one of your Flash reporters? Wait a minute."

Waiting, Sandra drew a hand across her brow and it came away moist. She hadn't planned to do this, but now she did herself she should have done it hours ago. If she couldn't save Enid, she could at least warn her.

Enid's voice seemed to be very far away. "Hello, darling," Sandra said. "It's grand to hear your voice again. How are you?" "I'm all right." There was something in her mother's voice that suggested extreme fatigue. "When are you coming home, Sandra?" Sandra started to speak, hesitated—then: "I can come any time you need me, Enid."

"It isn't that you're needed. You belong here." After a pause she said, "We haven't succeeded in getting any information from David, but your father heard indirectly that you were working on The Flash. We were both very much upset over it."

Sandra bit her lips through the little silence. Then she said, "I'm leaving The Flash today, Enid." And not trusting herself to deliberate, to think how she would say it: "My boss gave me an assignment and I had to refuse it. He had a tip that Martha Ansell was planning to file a divorce action and he wanted me to find out whom Martha would name as co-respondent."

In that breathless moment when she awaited Enid's reply, Sandra saw Bryant Wilson coming across the room. She remembered the day Bryant had told Matt that David was her brother and it flashed through her mind that he had heard of the Ansell assignment and had again come to her defense. Then Enid was speaking:

Abundance Is Greater Test Than Scarcity

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

ST. PAUL said that he knew how to have plenty and how to do without. It did not matter to him whether he was well off or ill off, materially; he did not depend on things.

Not many of us have mastered that fine art. Most of us think that it does not require much learning to have plenty, and that the hard lesson of life is to learn to do without.

It is easy, we imagine, to be content if we have plenty. But that is not necessarily so. Of the two, abundance is a more searching test of the quality of a man than scarcity is.

Anyway, we have plenty of practice in doing without. We do not need to choose what things we shall do without, as a rule. They are taken from us, or we never get them at all.

The result is the same; we have to do without. And we give away our inmost self by the fashion in which we do it, whether sulkily or wisely. It is an art, which is worth studying.

Take the art of writing. Stevenson said that if we knew what to omit we could turn the daily paper into a poem. A great writer, he added, knows how to do without words.

An artist selects, leaves out, amputates adjectives, prunes his sentences, as Newman knew how to do so well. The chaff is blown away, and we have only the fine wheat of his genius.

But St. Paul went deeper. He knew that wealth is not the man. Poverty is not the man. The man is what he is in his inner spirit, in his character, and not in what he has or does not have.

If only we could get that fact into our heads, in regard to ourselves and others, it would make us more happy and content. The art of life is how to live without having our own way.

If we do not have what we like, said the late King George, we must learn to like what we have. If we must do without some things, we can also do much with the things we do have.

Party Food.
Sweet omelets are general favorites. Add one tablespoonful of sugar to the regular omelet batter. When the omelet is cooked, cover it with fresh fruit, berries sprinkled with sugar. Serve it immediately with syrup, honey or whipped cream. (Fruits may also be used as a filling if the omelet is served half turned over.)

FLOWERS FOR EVENING

By the Associated Press.
VICHY—Flowers are much in favor as accents to evening coiffures in this fashionable resort. One South American beauty tucked white camellias in the dark curls massed on top of her head and a fair-haired English girl wears a diadem of small mauve flowers.

Do not waste leftover celery tops. Wash them well, cover them with three inches of water and let them simmer for 20 minutes in a covered pan. The stock may be used in soups. It also combines well with milk when in oyster stew.

respondent means nothing to you, nor you to her."

Bryant stood by the desk, pretending to read the paper, but listening to the sound of her voice. Because he took it for granted she was making a business call, Sandra said, haltingly, "I see. . . Well—good-by." Not being able to look at Bryant for a moment for her head was spinning with the memory of Enid's words.

Bryant said, "I've just talked to Matt and he says you can take tomorrow off. We're flying to New London to save time." Grinn.

Sandra nodded, vaguely. "That's fine. What time do we start?" (Copyright, 1937.)

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, July 28.—The Foreign Office announced today Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan's Twenty-ninth army had smashed the Japanese campaign against Peiping in the first major battle of an undeclared war between China and Japan.

The Chinese troops were reported to have reformed their lines after shattering bombardment at dawn by squadrons of Japanese war planes, counter-attacked and captured Fengtai, Japanese field headquarters west of Peiping.

Evacuation Warnings Dropped.

A Japanese air fleet roared over the countryside about Peiping early today, dropping leaflets warning the Chinese populace to evacuate after a day of undeclared war in North China that extended from the former capital to the sea.

The evacuation warning told the inhabitants that they might expect further onslaughts, designed to expel Chinese troops from the whole area, at daybreak.

Outside Peiping, hostilities continued this morning at least one point—Hsiyuan, three miles northwest of the city, where the main body of the Thirty-seventh Division of the Twenty-ninth Chinese army was reported stationed.

Military headquarters of the Japanese North China army here said yesterday, first day of large-scale hostilities, had seen six strategic centers north, east and south of Peiping captured in the closing of the Japanese army pincers.

The Foreign Office announcement at Nanking said that the strategic railway center of Langfang, 30 miles south of Peiping and midpoint of the military line to Tianjin, had been taken.

Japanese military quarters de-layed the reports of the Chinese victories and asserted the Twenty-ninth army had been driven out of its garrison stronghold at Nankun, five miles south of the an-nounced city, and hurried back on the walls of Peiping.

The Japanese war office at Tokyo announced that, since the first out-break, 32 Japanese officers and sol-diers had been killed and 113 wounded, including today's victims.

The Japanese attacked at dawn after Chinese had refused an ultimatum to withdraw from North China.
